

The sturdy Yale varsity eight which defeated Pennsylvania by a boat length over the historic Henley course on the Schuylkill River in Philadelphia a week ago yesterday in the first collegiate regatta of spring. Guy Nickalls' junior varsity eight also won a clean-cut victory over the Quakers. Yale varsity: Captain and coxswain, Carson; stroke, Peters; Ellis, Lovejoy, Flagg, Shiefflin, McHenry, Moulton and Allen.

Lodger Photo

Left—"In the spring a young man's fancy," etc.—our photographer shamelessly snaps a pair of Gotham youthful lovers as they bill and coo on somebody's front stoop somewhere in Yorkville.

Paul Thompson

Right—All wool, but not a yard wide. Master Hoy, youthful shepherd of his daddy's Central Park meadows, claims a reward for finding the w. k. Mary's lost pet.

Underwood

Below — Supermen these! Five of them can shoulder a battleship's 16-inch gun. But it's one of the wooden guns from the navy's record-breaking recruiting station, the famous land battleship of Union Square, which has been recently dismantled.

Kodak A. Herbert

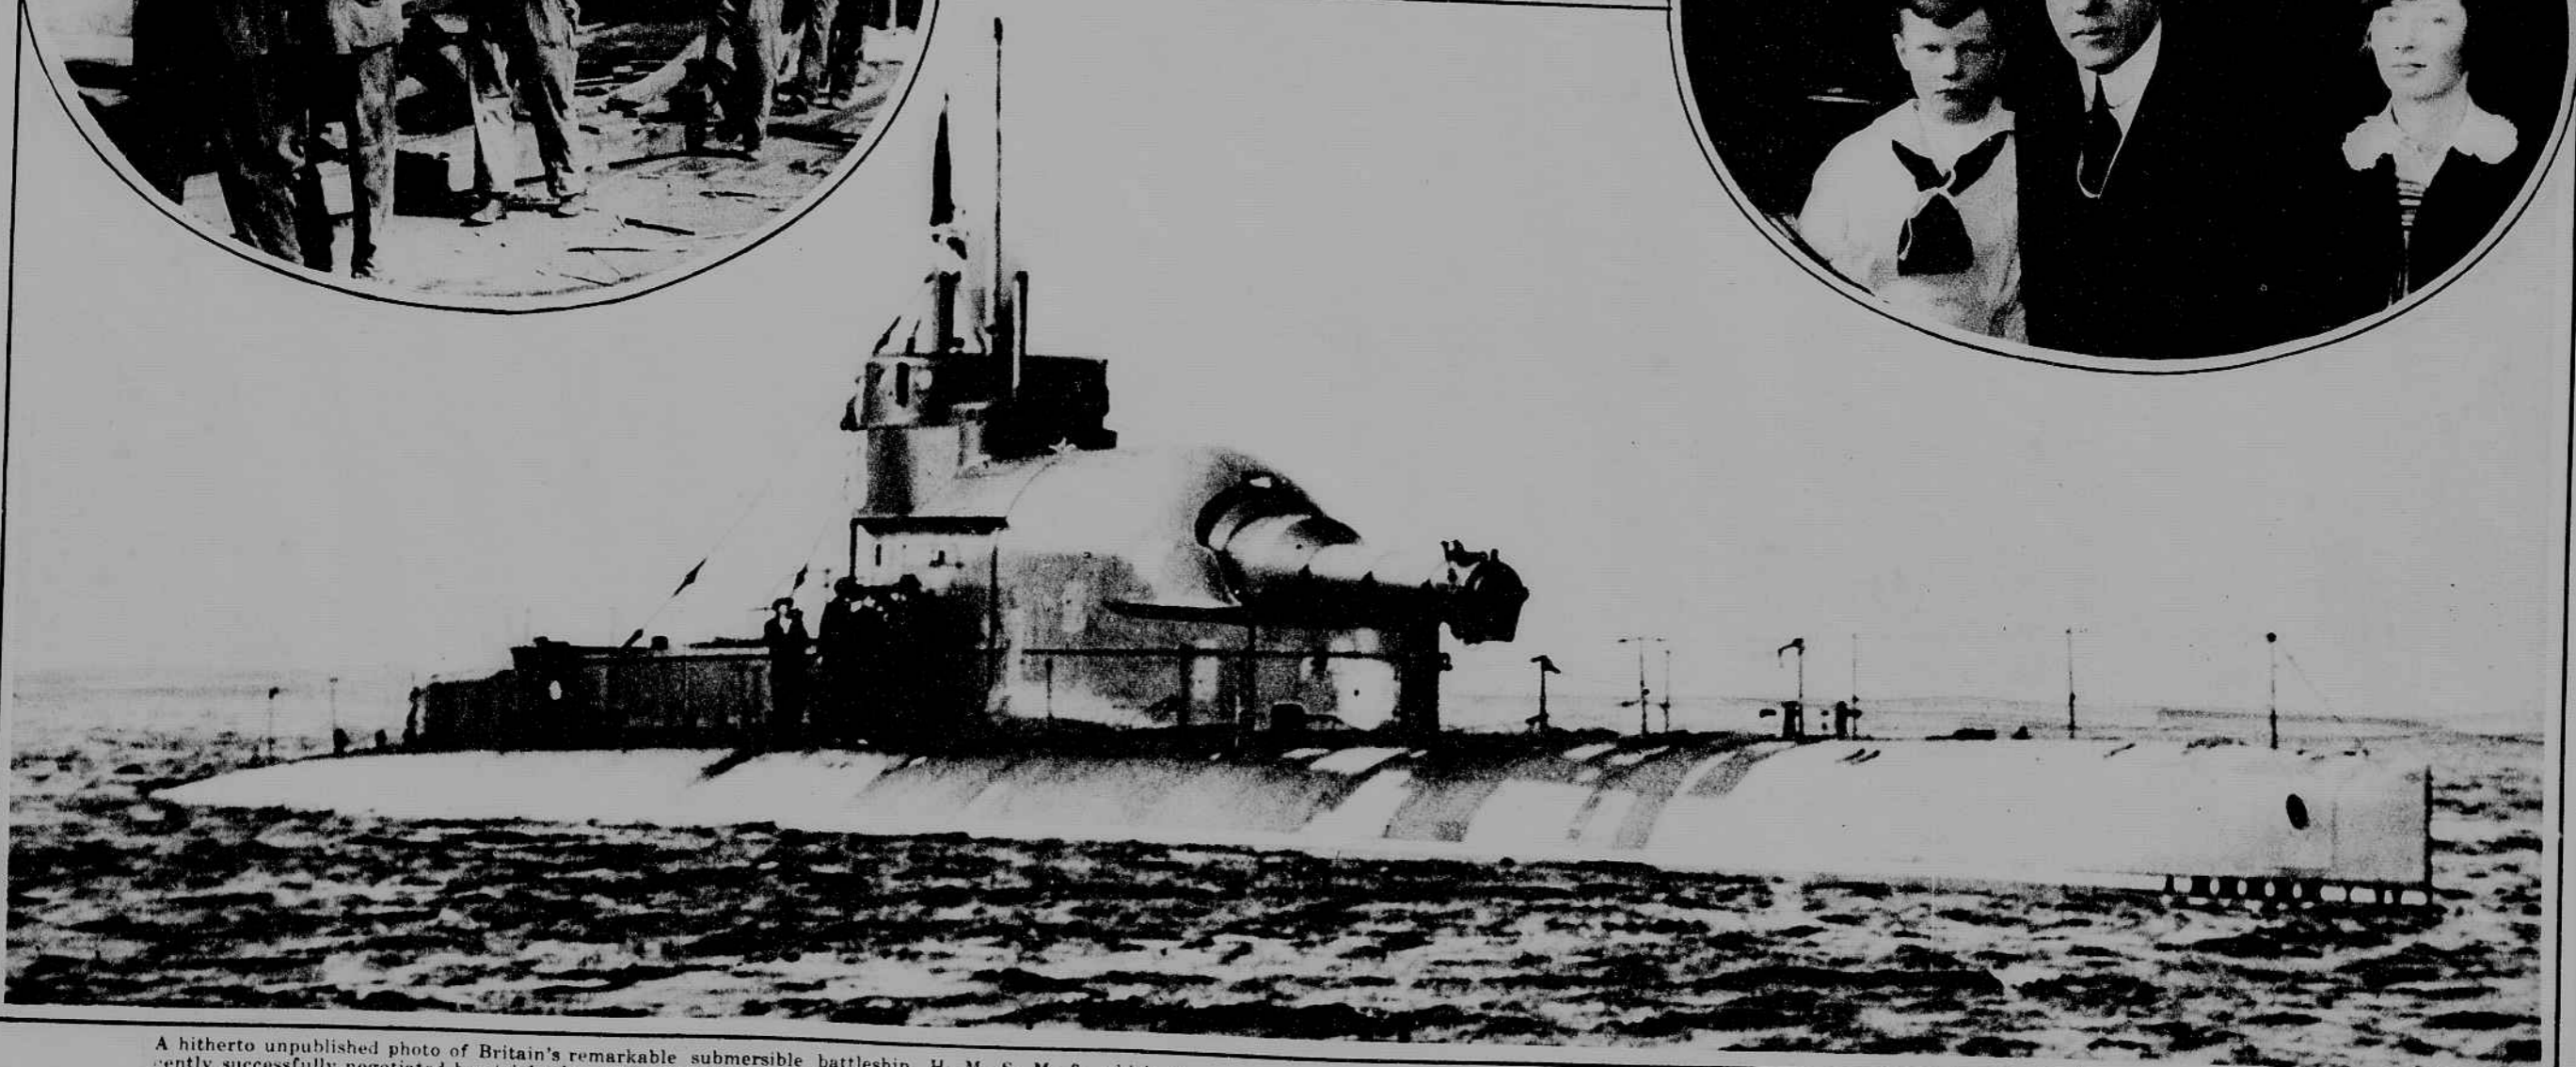

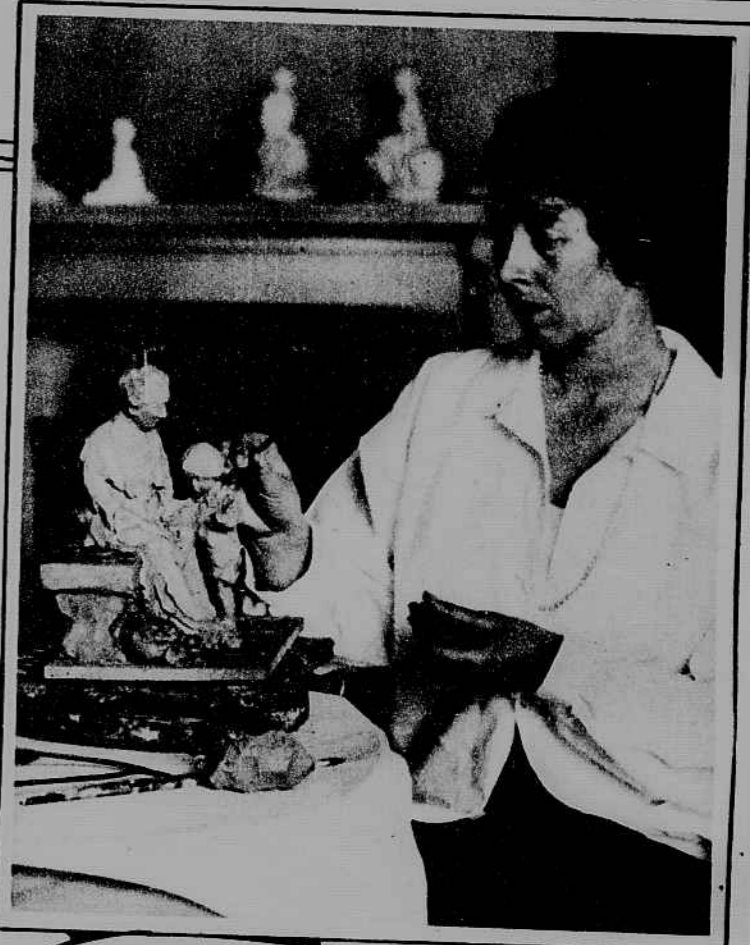

Right — Mrs. Lithrow Osborne, formerly the Countess Rabenletvitseu, daughter of the Danish diplomat, at work in her Washington studio on one of the informal statuettes which are proving all the rage with the capital's social set. A recent studio exhibition of her work created an unusual amount of interest.

Underwood

Below — Introducing the Vanderlip family. Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Miss Virginia (with the bobbed hair), Miss Charlotte and Master Kelvin. A party headed by Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlip left New York two weeks ago to-day on an unofficial two months' trip to Japan, with the object of promoting better relations between that land and the United States.

Underwood

A hitherto unpublished photo of Britain's remarkable submersible battleship, H. M. S. M. 3, which recently successfully negotiated her trial trip. The distinctive feature of this formidable undersea craft is the single 12-inch gun mounted in an armored waterproof conning tower forward—the largest and most powerful rifle ever placed on a submarine.

Central News