HOLD DIGGS FOR ASSAULT

Alleged White Slaver's Troubles Multiply—Testimony of Father Against the Defendant—Lola Morris Tells Her Story

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—As a result of the free-for-all fight yesterday between newspaper photographers and the Diggs-Caminetti party, Maury I. Diggs was re-arrested today, charged with assault by A. Devine, Frank Ramsey, a friend of Diggs, and arrested yesterday in the same melee, was found guilty today of assault on V. Mathews, and will be sentenced Monday.

Diggs became incensed yesterday because photographers attempted to snap his wife and mother, his father and aunt as they were leaving the federal building where Diggs is on trial under the Mann white slave traffic act. After the fight that followed, the whole party of men were bundled into a patrol wagon and taken to the nearest station house.

Fights With Photographers

Maury I. Diggs got into fresh trouble last night and out of it. Leaving the federal building by a side entrance to shield his wife, his mother, his father and three aunts from the public curiosity, he was ambushed by a squad of newspaper photographers. The women tried to run but the photographers kept pace with them, snapping their cameras as they gave chase.

Somebody snatched at a camera. Somebody pushed a photographer in the face, bystanders joined in and in an instant there was a free-for-all fight at the center of a swirling crowd. Drew Caminetti was swept into the vortex and began to struggle with the rest. It became so complicated that the squad of police who came running to the melee bundled the whole party of principals into a patrol wagon and took them to the station.

There it developed, after much argument, that one photographer had been hammered on the head with something hard, what, or by whom, he cannot be sure. A reporter said that the photographer had been smashed in the face with his own camera. As the upshot of the whole affair, Diggs was released and a friend of his, a law clerk, was charged with battery. In the more serious troubles which just now engross the attention of Diggs, the government rested at noon and the defense took up the burden of proving that he and F. Drew Caminetti did not transport Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris from Sacramento to Reno for immoral purposes, in violation of the Mann white slave traffic act.

Devil's Statement

So far as the opening statement of Attorney Devlin for the defense indicated, no attempt will be made to show that the two girls did not accompany the two young married men to Reno, that Diggs did not buy the tickets and Caminetti drew the money or that their relations did not fall within the language of the statute.

"We had a show," said Attorney Devlin to the jury, "that the purpose of this trip was not as stated in the indictment, that it was the intention of the defendants only to leave Sacramento for a short time to avoid notoriety, that they had first intended to go to some place within the state; that it never was their intention to leave the state, but simply to get out of Sacramento, that they missed a train for Los Angeles and took the next one, which went to Reno."

"This crime—if it is a crime—is such only because the incidents are supposed to have happened between two states. If they had happened within the boundaries of California, these two young men would not have been charged with the violation of this statute."

Two weeks previously Diggs had said he was going to Los Angeles. We will show that Miss Warrington said she was going too, and that he could not leave her in Sacramento."

Other testimony which the defense promised to introduce would go to show that the men had told what they believed to be the truth about the reasons for leaving Sacramento—that a scandal soon to explode would cover them all with shame and involve them all in prosecutions.

Wives in Court

The two defendants had the moral support yesterday of their wives and mothers who appeared in court after the noon intermission and listened to some particularly unpleasant testimony. While Mrs. Diggs held her pretty little daughter Evelyn, four years old, on her knees, she heard M. H. Dipenbrock testify to the character of her husband as a tenant.

"The janitor of my office building," he testified, "and the policeman on the beat told me that Diggs was entertaining two young girls in his office. I cautioned him and told him that it could not help him make an assignment house out of the building. The janitor told me that the juvenile authorities were after Diggs and I told him so."

The purpose of this testimony was to show that Diggs had cause for alarm and desired to flee. Corroborative testimony was given by P. J. O'Brien, a saloon keeper, D. T. Letch, a chauffeur, and G. A. Putnam, a Sacramento newspaperman.

The latter testified that he had formerly known Marsha Warrington. "I told her to shake Diggs; that he wasn't any good, that he had a bad reputation, that it would hurt her good name and her father's business, and ruin her character to have anything to do with him."

"She said, 'I will never go out with him any more, believe me.' I told her that my newspaper didn't have any scandal story about her and wouldn't print it, if it had."

Diggs' Father on Stand

The last witness was Diggs' father, L. P. Diggs, a contractor and builder of Berkeley. He seemed bowed down under the weight of sorrow, but told a straightforward story of all the town talk surrounding his son and the efforts he made to induce him to mend his ways.

"I told him I wanted him to come and see me and round the whole thing up. His uncle, Marshal Diggs, and his young wife told me that he was running wild with other women. I told him I didn't want the family broken up, that the situation was pretty serious and that I was going to prosecute Caminetti, Miss Warrington, Miss Norris and himself, if the thing didn't end right away."

Shortly before he went away, I told him that at Sacramento and told him to bring his automobile to Berkeley to me. I was going to take it away from him because he was running around with women in it. Then I won't bring it, he said, I told him that I would go up there and settle with him."

The worried father told how he had found his son's desk cluttered with mail. Judge Van Fleet wanted to know the purpose of this line of testimony. Devlin answered that it was to show the defendant's state of mind.

"Oh, we object to this line of examination," broke in the government. "The government doesn't deny that Diggs wanted to go away, but it does contend that when he went, he took these two young girls with him."

HUERTA TO MOVE NEXT

Washington, Aug. 16.—Administration officials here expect the next move in the Mexican situation to come from the Huerta government. Official advice that the views of the United States as set forth in a formal note, had been delivered to the Mexican government and were under consideration by Provisional President Huerta and his cabinet, were received here today, with the additional information that the views of the United States had been transmitted at the same time to diplomatic representatives of foreign governments in Mexico City, according to President Wilson's original plan.

Secretary Bryan preserved silence today, even declining to say whether the note had been presented. President Wilson, after going over the situation, left for the golf links.

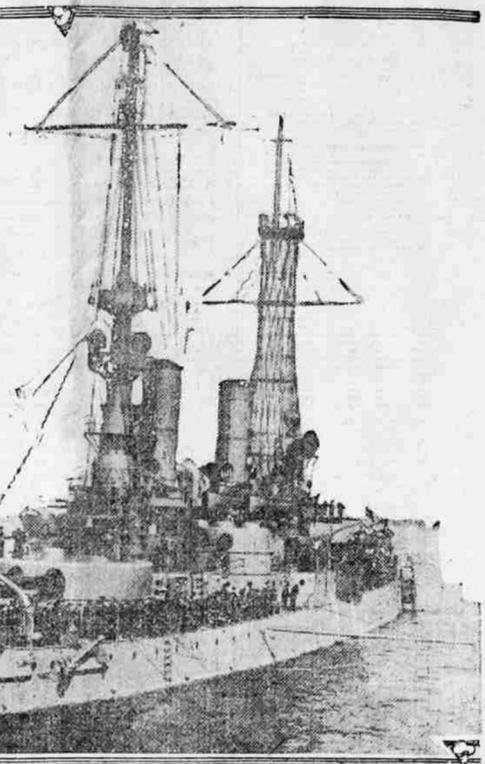

The Mexican embassy here had no advice whatever of Mr. Lind's note; it had not been advised of its contents by the state department here and embassy officials expected to receive it if at all, from Minister Gamboa in Mexico City.

Publication of this government's views as set out in the note is being withheld for the present at the request of the Huerta government, that it be first permitted to go over the communication. Secretary Bryan's plan is to publish the contents simultaneously in Washington and Mexico City later, and probably with the acquiescence of Huerta.

The senate foreign relations committee again today discussed phases of the Mexican situation and the scope of the report by the special investigating committee, of which Senator Smith of Michigan was chairman.

The committee directed that this report, and an individual report by Senator Fall, should be laid before the entire foreign relations committee, probably next week for decision whether they shall be submitted to the senate. None of the pending resolutions on Mexican affairs was acted on.

BATTLESHIP OREGON FIRST TO PASS THROUGH ISTHMIAN CANAL; SENTIMENT PROMPTS NAVY SECRETARY TO GIVE OLD SHIP HONOR

Battleship Oregon and Secretary Daniels.

Washington, Aug. 15.—(Special)—Arguing that the sentiment of history requires that the battleship Oregon whose famous trip around the Horn during the Spanish-American war may be said to have caused the Panama canal to be built, Secretary Daniels has determined that this ship shall be the one to open that great project to the world.

So it is that the Oregon is now being modernized at a cost of $1,000,000 in the Puget Sound navy yard. She is being fitted with every convenience and improvement, including a new military mast and a system of fire control, a wireless telegraph outfit and a number of improved labor saving devices. She will, when she goes through the canal, still look pretty much as she did in 1898, with her low freeboard, but inside she will be as new a ship as the giant super-Dreadnaught New York, whose keel was laid in 1912.

The Oregon was built and launched at San Francisco in 1893. She had passed her life in the Pacific and was in the Puget Sound dry dock at Bremerton, Wash., on March 6, 1898, when the navy department at Washington wired "get ready" to the ship's commander, Captain Charles Edgar Clark, then at San Diego with the Monterey. That same day the Oregon steamed out of Puget Sound for San Francisco.

The blowing up of the Maine in Havana harbor a few days later made it imperative for the government to assemble the strongest naval force possible in the West Indies, in anticipation of war with Spain.

It was that emergency—with the battleship Oregon so near and yet so far—that caused Uncle Sam to determine to build the Panama canal. As it was, there was nothing to do but to order the Oregon around Cape Horn, involving a journey of over 15,000 miles.

Everyone who is at all familiar with American history remembers the story of that voyage. On March 19 Captain Clark started from San Francisco. He hastened down the west coast of South America, steamed at full speed through the Straits of Magellan, slackening not for rocks or dark darkness nor wind nor ice in that stormy, treacherous passage, and finally reached Rio. Here he received a cable from Washington saying war between Spain and the United States had been declared.

Though advised to linger at Rio he hastened on, while suspense throughout the United States over the fate of the vessel became a cult. At Barbadoes Captain Clark got word from Washington that the Spanish fleet had arrived somewhere in those waters and was lying in wait. The captain adopted the ruse of pretending to scurry back to Brazil. He steamed south, then west, and by making a wide detour in the Atlantic finally arrived safe and sound on the coast of Florida sixty-five days after leaving Frisco. The whole country was thrilled with joy.

Then the Oregon joined the American fleet on the Cuban coast, and on July 3 did her full share toward destroying Cervera's Spanish fleet. The story is that the Oregon passed the Indiana, the Iowa and the Texas and held her own as to speed with the cruiser Brooklyn in the rush at the Spanish squadron.

SEARCH FOR MURDERERS

Pittsburg, Detectives Are Busy Investigating Two Crimes Occurring Within 24 Hours

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 16.—County detectives and the police of Pittsburg are searching for two murderers whose crimes within the last twenty-four hours have aroused the community.

The first came to light when the body of Miss Pauline Loos, a young school teacher of Crafton, Pa., was found floating in the Allegheny river near Verona. An autopsy revealed that she had been assaulted and thrown into the river while unconscious.

The other crime was the shooting to death of Nicholas Ritort who was talking with a party of friends in Washington street not far from a busy business district. Persons in the party who were taken to police headquarters declared a man ran into the crowd, fired four shots into Ritort's body and escaped.

TENNIS PLAYERS REACH NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., Aug. 16.—Many aspirants for national lawn tennis championship honors in singles arrived in this city today for the all-comers tournament which begins on the Casino courts Monday.

The tournament will be the 33rd in the history of the United States National Lawn Tennis association and it is expected that Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco the present title holder and star of the American team which lifted the Davis cup will be one of the contenders. Under the recent rules of the association the champion is compelled to play through the tournament.

McLoughlin will make his first appearance since the Davis cup matches Monday, when with T. C. Bundy, also of California, he will defend the national doubles championship title against John Strachan and Clarence Griffin, two more Pacific Coast players, and the winners in the preliminary tournament at Chicago last week. This match will be the only doubles event played at Newport.

KNIGHT TEMPLARS' SPECIAL

Los Angeles, Aug. 16.—One hundred and forty-three members of the Mary commandery, Knights Templars of Philadelphia, were visiting Los Angeles today, having crossed the continent in a special train to tour the Pacific coast. The commandery came direct from Denver where it attended the recent triennial convocation.

HYDRO-AEROPLANE RACE

Southampton, Eng., Aug. 16.—A hydro-aeroplane race round the coasts of England and Scotland for a prize of $25,000 was started this afternoon from Southampton with only one participant, Harry Hawker, the winner of the Michelin prize in 1912, accompanied by a passenger.

MILLINER'S MURDERERS

Police of Canada and the United States Are on the Lookout For Two Men Who Are Alleged to Have Killed William Martin

New York, Aug. 16.—The police of Canada and of the United States, particularly in San Francisco, were requested today to search for two men sought as the murderers of William G. Martin, a Toronto dealer in millinery, who was found dead early this week in a furnished room house here.

Circulars sent out broadcast this afternoon described the alleged murderers as Harry Schaefer, alias Shafer, alias Murray, and Mike Strocchio, alias Sage, alias Santo.

Schaefer, according to the circulars, is a good looking, clean cut, well dressed young man of 20 years. Strocchio is described as stockily built, nattily dressed and not much older than his companion.

SULZER WILL NOT GIVE UP

New York's Two Governors Continue to Claim to Be the Chief Executive—Each Waits for the Other to Move

Albany, Aug. 16.—All negotiations toward having the courts decide who is the governor of New York were declared off today. For the third consecutive day William Sulzer, the impeached governor, and Martin H. Glynn, who was elected lieutenant governor, occupied offices in the capitol, each claiming to be the chief executive.

Indications were that the deadlock would last until the meeting of the legislature next Tuesday, if not longer.

Neither claimant endeavored to interfere in any way with the other. Each seemed to be marking time, waiting for the other to take the offensive.

Attacks on Hale

Mexico City, Aug. 16.—Vicious attacks on Dr. William Bayard Hale, who is here for the purpose of advising President Wilson on affairs in Mexico, are contained today in nearly all the Mexican newspapers.

The intraspecific accuses him of being "an interventionist whose greatest desire is to see the stars and stripes waving over Mexico."

Other comments are of a similar tenor. Dr. Hale has received a dozen anonymous warnings, either telephoned or written, that he is in danger of arrest or expulsion. He believes that the campaign against him is directed from the United States.

STRIKE IS THREATENED

Governor Ammons of Colorado Taking Steps to Avert Coal Miners' Walkout in Utah, New Mexico as Well as His Own State

Denver, Colo., Aug. 16.—Governor E. M. Ammons prepared today to exert all the influence of the state administration to avert the threatened strike of coal miners in Colorado, New Mexico and Utah. He ordered Edward Brake, deputy state labor commissioner, to visit the southern Colorado fields, the center of the trouble at once and make a report on the exact conditions there.

Frank J. Hayes, international vice president of the Mine Workers of America, who is in Denver today, declares he has full authority to call a strike if the conditions warrant it. Recognition of the union, Hayes declared, will be insisted upon by the miners.

The mine workers' vice president said today that the strike, if called, will affect 20,000 men in District 16, comprising Colorado, Utah and New Mexico.

MAN'S DEATH IS MYSTERY

Police Using Every Effort Possible to Gain Clue That Will Solve Death of Wealthy Lumberman—Involves Question of Insurance Money

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 16.—Every effort is being made by the police to unravel the mystery of the death yesterday of John McAlpine, the wealthy lumberman who was found shot to death in the basement of his home in the fashionable East End district.

The police are trying to determine whether murder was committed. The wound in McAlpine's head is about an inch above the ear and a little to the back. It is not such a wound as would ordinarily be caused in suicide, declare the police, and the lack of powder marks indicates that the shot was not fired from a point close to the head.

The developments in the investigation thus far have not supported the theory of suicide, according to the police. They can find no motive for self-destruction in Mr. McAlpine's business affairs, his condition of health or his state of mind.

The authorities declare they are at sea because they did not learn that a shooting had occurred until the body had been removed from the basement of the home. The revolver, a .48 calibre automatic, was found under the basement steps, according to the police.

On the determination of the question of suicide will rest the payment of $140,000, in accident money held by Mr. McAlpine. Policies amounting to $65,000 are straight life policies and are not contestable.

DEMANDS OF FOUR UNIONS

First Time in 40 Years Conductors, Engineers, Trainmen and Firemen of Southern Pacific Unite in Presenting Their Case to the Mediator

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—For the first time in forty years, the Order of Railway Conductors, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen are presenting a united front in their negotiations with the Southern Pacific company.

Negotiations between the men and the company over the operation of its electric system in California and Oregon are moving slowly. Each day there is a conference between representative of the company, and of the men, and W. W. Hanger, the mediator representing the government, whose services were invoked under the Newlands act.

Thus far, it was said today, the most important result arrived at has been the solidification of the four great unions, and the willingness of the company to agree that their contentions shall be received equally and alike.

BRIDE SUICIDES

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Mary Gro-jok, 28 years old, a bride of six days, who is said to have been deserted three days after her marriage, committed suicide by hanging in her bedroom today.
