

LINER OLYMPIC IN WAR CAREER KNEW MANY CLOSE CALLS

White Star Vessel Dodged Submarines, Fought Off U-Boats While in Transport and Carried Many Fighters

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Dodging German submarines in the Mediterranean, trying to save sinking warships in the north Atlantic, and fighting off vicious U-boat attacks, while carrying American troops, are some of the achievements credited to the White Star liner Olympic, during her adventurous career of the wartime. These were only incidents of her experience, because, on account of her great passenger capacity, she was steadily and faithfully keeping to the task of transporting men and materials for the armies in Europe. First it was Chinese coolies for road building, then farmer boys from Canada to replace the losses of Vimy ridge, and finally many thousands of Americans to face the German on the western battle front.

"Her work during the Gallipoli campaign," writes a member of the crew, to the Daily News, "when she carried about 8000 troops—at that time the greatest number ever carried by any ship—following upon her gallant attempt off the north of Ireland to tow the water-logged dreadnaught, Audacious, was sufficient to put her in the first rank of transports, but her subsequent work in bringing Canadian troops and Chinese labor battalions, and then her wonderful career since Christmas 1917, when she arrived in New York for her first load of American troops, must put her in a class by herself as a 'trooper'."

"She carried well over 300,000 people while on war service.

"It would not be correct to say that Captain Hayes has brought her through without a scratch. She bent and fractured some of her plates when, in the darkness, early one morning she 'strated' one of Germany's finest U-boats.

"The Olympic had most of her adventures while she was carrying the American troops. During March, April and May, 1918, the German submarine commanders made at least seven daring attacks on her. Not once did the enemy have time to launch a torpedo, for in every case he was greeted by a 6-inch shell or one of the destroyers was on his track with her depth charges. Perhaps some of Germany's missing submarines are now lying below the track of the Olympic.

"The most thrilling experience which the Olympic had, took place in the darkness of early morning of May, 1918, near the entrance to the English channel. It was just about 4 o'clock when the look-out man picked out of the almost total darkness the outline of a lurking submarine, which was lying on the surface. Immediately after his warning shout one of the forward guns blazed out, and the ship, with her helm hard over,

MORE MEN THAN JOBS HERE

Soldiers Find Old Positions Waiting for Them FLOATERS FIND NO WELCOME

When Johnnie comes marching home and doffs his uniform for the attire of civil life, be it broadcloth and high collar, or the latest creation of the overall makers, he will ask a pointed question: "Where's that job? I'm ready to go to work."

It has become a point of honor in the Warren district to answer: "It's right here, waiting for you."

Find Old Jobs Open

Soldiers who formerly worked in this district are finding no trouble whatever in obtaining employment. In fact, save in exceptional cases, returning soldiers and sailors are the only men being put to work in the mines of the Warren district at the present time.

Some of the men who are in the field still, or who expect to return here soon, are reported to have written or telegraphed their former employers asking to know whether their old position is awaiting them. In every instance the reply has been in the affirmative.

In discussing the local labor situation, W. R. Ashurst, who is agent in charge of the United States employment service, said:

"The local labor market is full to overflowing right now. I have wired the department of labor in Washington, D. C., stating it as my belief that when it comes to their attention that any man who was not a resident of this district prior to the outbreak of the war expresses the intention of coming here, he should be informed of the situation and discouraged in his intention if possible.

More Men Than Jobs

"I have far greater number of applications for work on hand right now than I can find employment for. Every day adds to the list of men who have come here in search of work. They include not alone men just discharged from the army and navy, but others who left here to work in the ship yards and on other government projects. All of these men should be taken care of, I believe.

"There is another class coming in, however, which might be described as the discontented 'floaters' from other communities. However much we may sympathize with their efforts to find employment, they are not to be considered, I believe, until our soldiers, sailors and war workers have been found employment.

"To quote a specific instance: A spun around like a great racing yacht and crashed into the enemy.

"The blow was, of course, not a clean one, or there would have been few survivors from the submarine. Judging from the damage on the bows and the stern, the blow cut off one end of the submarine. The rest drifted just the stern of the Olympic, and one of the gun crews on the poop planted a 6-inch shell squarely into it. One of the destroyers in the escort dropped behind, and by the light of star shells picked up 31 survivors, three of whom died on the way to port. The total crew of the submarine was over sixty."

young woman who said she had given up a position as stenographer in a small town, although receiving a good salary, "because she wanted to see Bisbee." I shall try to place her, as a matter of course, but first, in my estimation, and that of employers, would come soldiers, sailors or war worker stenographers of whom there are large numbers.

Jobs Become Scarce

"It is going to be difficult to obtain work, not only here, but anywhere in the country this winter, and I am warning every man with whom I am coming in contact to hold on to whatever employment he has, no matter what it is paying. About next June, I anticipate a decided revival of industry, but until that time, the man who leaves his position is foolish.

"For the information of anybody here who feels attracted to other parts of the country by stories of high wages paid, I might say that if they will come to me and make inquiry, I can get a line on wages, living costs, living conditions and other surrounding circumstances within a comparatively short time. Then, after they have the complete facts, if they feel the urge of the wanderlust, it is up to them.

"A specific instance brought to my attention recently, was that of a man who quit a good job here, because he heard that high wages were being paid in Ranger and other towns of the new Texas oil fields. He is going there to an uncertainty, whereas, if he had come to me, I could have told him in a few hours, simply by telegraphing to the labor agent at Ranger, what the conditions were, how much money a man of his experience might be expected to draw, with reason, and how much of a chance there would be for his getting employment after arriving there. Unless he is a skilled oil driller, the chances of getting more than a normal wage, certainly not as much as the average wage paid here, would be small."

Mr. Ashurst said the employment service of the government is receiving increasingly good co-operation, not only here, but all over the country from employers, while men desiring work are calling upon the labor agents more and more to help them in their search for employment.

Readings Daily and Sunday, From 9 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Strangely fascinating are the words that come from the cultivated lips of this most interesting man, whose journey of life has already taken him through all the renowned psychic schools of Egypt, India and Europe. It seems indeed as if knowledge must come from that mysterious world of which we all would know, yet longing cannot know. He looks far away into the dim, mysterious future—the great beyond—across the dark chasm which separates the human body from the flitting soul—and that which is to be told. The separated are brought together, foes are made friends, lost property is recovered, the mist is brushed away from business ventures, the hand is so guided that failures are averted, the earth's surface is explored, its treasures laid bare to his mysterious perceptive mind, and while he gives names, dates, facts and figures, his visitors sit dumbfounded at the revelations he makes to them. He is surely a man of the passing time.

Only to Know the Great Desire—Clairvoyance Gives That Knowledge.

His Revelations Are Most Wonderful

And acknowledged to be of the highest order, not made to satisfy idle curiosity, but intended to give those who seek the truth a permanent benefit. He does not cater to the superstitions of the ignorant, credulous people. If you are in doubt that he can and will perform all he claims, feel yourself invited to call and he will give you a more substantial proof of his marvelous powers than you have before received from mortal.

AMERICA'S BATTLE FLEET IS HONORED BY THE NATION

Part of U. S. battle fleet in Hudson river, seen from Riverside drive, and Rear Admiral Gleaves on way to shore in power boat from U. S. S. Alabama during recent review.

America is now having its first glimpse of the great battle fleet which played such an important part in the war. The U. S. overseas fleet under command of Admiral Mayo recently returned from European waters and was given the greatest reception ever tendered a U. S. naval squadron when it steamed into New York harbor. Over ninety warships of various sizes and kinds joined in the gaucic review, which was witnessed by Secretary of the Navy Daniels and other dignitaries. The overseas fleet consisted of ten dreadnaughts and a fleet of destroyers and other craft.
