

Sunday,
February 2, 1919

The New York Times

Photogravure
Picture Section, 6
In Two Parts

THE 59TH COAST ARTILLERY, BROOKLYN'S "LUCKY 18TH," ARRIVES IN NEW YORK, IN AN EIGHTY-MILE-AN-HOUR GALE, ABOARD THE BATTLESHIPS LOUISIANA AND NEW HAMPSHIRE.

This Photograph Shows the Louisiana Steaming Up the Hudson River Accompanied by the Mayor's Committee of Welcome Aboard the Patrol.
(Times Photo Service.)

FROM CANAL STREET TO FRANCE AND RETURN.

(Times Photo Service.)

A WARM
WELCOME
FOR THE 59TH
AT LONG ISLAND
CITY.

(Times Photo Service.)

A PICTUR-ESQUE
WELCOME
for the 59th from its Friends at the Battery.

(© International Film Service.)

CAPTAIN HOMER SAINT-GAUDENS,

Son of the Sculptor, and Commander of Company A, 40th Engineers, America's Camouflage Unit, Arriving in New York.

(© International Film.)

COLONEL RICHARD K. CRAVENS, IN COMMAND OF THE 59TH.

(Times Photo Service.)

THE UNIVERSAL SMILE OF THE 59TH'S BOYS

May Be Accounted for by the Fact That the Regiment Saw Some of the Fiercest Fighting in the War But Suffered Only Twelve Casualties on the Field of Battle.
(Times Photo Service.)