KEEFE SCORES IMMIGRATION BUSINESS IN REPORT TO NAGEL

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Scoring immigration as a menace to the "American standard" of living and wages, and flaying in bitter terms the organizations and affiliations "that for selfish motives promote schemes" to secure a distribution of aliens, for purely selfish motives, Commissioner General of Immigration Daniel Keefe, in an official report to Secretary Nagel, today declares in substance that immigration to America has degenerated into a corporate business and that the immigration "problem" was long since beyond control.

Commissioner General Keefe, former officer of the American Federation of Labor, and appointed because of his knowledge of labor conditions, gives what might be termed a warning to the American people, in his views, which have lost all optimism from close study.

The Commissioner General can see little if any measure of success for the organizations which are struggling with the problem of placing the immigrant "where he is needed" and preventing his settling in colonies in the large cities and centers of industry, "to which places most immigrants of today wish to go."

In paying his respects to these organizations, the Commissioner General says: "Some of these organizations are purely of a business nature. Others are, or pretend to be, patriotic or philanthropic in their purposes. Still others combine two or all three of these features. In their actual and avowed purposes, they range all the way from combinations of ticket agents, money lenders, and labor agencies working to a large extent for the benefit of the steamship companies, and employes of cheap unskilled labor, or labor agencies on the Mexican border engaged in procuring Mexican peons and distributing them throughout the West and Southwest, to the State and municipal organizations conducted from bona fide and from high, pure motives, but often incidentally procuring some of the same effects as the selfish organizations."

The Commissioner General is unsparing in his criticism of the big employers of unskilled cheap labor, whom he declares are working to keep the labor market glutted so as to keep down wages. "The theory that there is an almost unlimited demand for common labor in this country is now, and has been for some time, unwarranted by the facts," he says. "It is true, of course, that such concerns as railway lines, constructing contractors, meat-packing houses, and the like, using large numbers of unskilled laborers, are always glad to have a surplus on hand, so as to be in position to keep wages at the minimum; but the demand in this direction is too frequently created by the refusal of the employers to pay a living wage, or to furnish steady employment, to be a reliable indication of actual conditions."

INDIVIDUALISM IS KEY NOTE

Rev. R. E. Smith Tells Need For Use of Personal Work.

That the churches should take a lesson from the business houses and realize the importance of individualism in spreading the great message to the world is the opinion of Rev. R. E. Smith as expressed at a meeting held in the Theo. H. Davies Memorial Hall last night in connection with the Christian Extension movement. As a specific instance Mr. Smith referred to the use of commercial travelers who take the people individually and tell them of their goods. If the church workers would go about among the people and talk to each one greater results would be brought about.

During the course of a bright, breezy talk Mr. Smith spoke of the inspirational feature of personal work. "As soon as the soul has emerged through the various stages and comes into the Christian life God sends it on a mission to someone else," he told his audience. "Go ye into the world and preach the Gospel" is the command we are given. The same master who summons us to a life of peace also summons us to wage warfare against sin at all times. In other words, soul-winning is the great work to which God calls us all. Christ rebuked those who said he should not go amongst the sinners and as an answer He had said, "They that are whole need not a physician but they that are sick." Also He had said, "Follow me and I will make you to become fishers of men."

The speaker then instanced the parable of the ninety-nine sheep that were safe and the one that was missing, for which the shepherd looked all night, and said that it was one of the greatest. This seeking of souls and the bringing of them to Jesus Christ is the keynote of the Gospel and is the central point of the Christ-coming. All successful men have used it in their work and have made it their standard.

Referring to the motives for personal work Mr. Smith said the first thing he would point out was that it was their duty because Christ had said so. "Lift up thine eyes and look at the fields are not ripe for the harvest," he quoted to them, and then continued, "There is abundant need for us to do this right here, where we are all living, for sin like a great octopus is reaching out its tentacles and encircling the people."

The third motive is the blessings that can be conferred on the people by showing them a new world, new ideals and life of hope. The question of what is a man worth had never been answered by the great scholars in the same way that Christ had answered it when he came to earth, suffered with man and lastly died the most ignominious of deaths for him.

Of the reward to be expected, he quoted Longfellow's "Footprints in the sands of time," but at the same time he stated that no man can make his life sublime unless he makes someone else's life sublime. This ruling is as strict as any of that issued by the Moses and Pauline. We must be members that we are our brother's keeper and that every time we help someone else we will become more manly and more kindly.

Preparation.

The main thing in preparing for a movement like the present is to have a deep, earnest desire. Paul had this desire when he desired to become all things to some men, for he knew that he could not become all things to all men.

Knowledge of the Bible. Unless the people working in the movement have a knowledge of the Bible then they will be placed at a disadvantage. When doing the personal work during the coming two weeks it will be productive of better results if the Bible is known, for then some of the wonderful speeches and sayings can be quoted to those who are in doubt.

Power of Holy Spirit. The power of the Holy Spirit is one of the most important things to be considered. If the people are to depend on their organization only then they must rely on the Holy Spirit. It is the Holy Spirit that will give us the power to do all things that God desires us to do in our great work. We shall fail and it will be because none of us have pleaded with God to make us blessed and to bless others. God does not want to make you blessed only; He wants you to help others," concluded the speaker.

The best jewel in the world is consistency. No one will succeed who cannot do consistent work. This does not mean that we have all to be as perfect as Jesus Christ but as Christians should live honestly and succeed in being so much like Jesus Christ that we can look everyone in the eye with a clear conscience knowing that we are doing the work of Jesus Christ.

Executive Secretary Paul Super outlined in brief the methods that are to be employed during the meetings.

Cascarets Insure Inside Cleanliness

The millions of Cascaret users never have headache, constipation, biliousness or sick stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your bowels, liver and stomach clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing.

MISS PARKER VS. ST. PATRICK DINNER TO BOOM COMMERCE BLDG.

According to the arranged program, St. Patrick has got to divide the honors of the day this year with Miss Parker. The St. Patrick celebration will be on that day Miss Parker will have arrived at her majority, and it would seem that all Hawaii is interested in the event, and is going to make its interest manifest, as from all parts of the Territory friends are gathering to celebrate. A big delegation of Honolulu folk left Tuesday for the Big Island. From Kohala, Kona and Kau other clans will go.

As the seventeenth of March, Miss Parker's birthday, falls on a Sunday this year, the celebration will start Saturday. Those in charge say that its duration is indefinite.

Fully 800 guests are expected to attend the celebration. There will be, of course, a lot of an exceedingly elaborate nature. There also will be dancing, for Ernest Kaal and his singers and players have been engaged to furnish music.

There has also been some talk of honoring during the celebration.

RECEPTION AT CENTRAL UNION

There will be a reception tendered this evening to Mr. and Mrs. Delaporte in the parlors of Central Union Church. The Delaportes are missionaries who are spending a few weeks in Hawaii. There will be a pleasing program for the reception, containing musical features by some of the best musicians of the city. Mr. Fred Butler will sing. All friends of the church are cordially invited to attend.

CLOSE MATCHES IN LADIES' GOLF PLAY

That three of the four matches played to date in the ladies' golf tournament now in progress at the Country Club, have gone to extra holes for decision, shows that the handicapping has been unusually well done.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Withelmina Tenney, playing from scratch, was beaten by Miss Hartwell (2), 1 up in 18 holes, after an exciting match. Tuesday Miss Cooke (3) beat Miss Kennedy (4), 1 up.
