NEW YORK EXPOSED TO BOMBING BY HOSTILE AIR CRAFT

Peary's Startling Statement of Possibility of Such a Raid Borne Out by Known Facts of the Wonderful Development of the Fighting Airship

By ROBERT G. SHERBROOKE

FOUR days ago I was given a start of surprise and excitement by the news from New York. It appeared that the pilots of the airplanes had started the Capital of the United States, with the object of making an attack on the city.

In New York, and I daresay elsewhere, there was much excitement. The airplanes were seen flying over the city, and the people hurried to the windows to see if they could distinguish anything out of the ordinary. The news of the attack had spread, and there was much talk of what would happen.

The airplanes were seen flying over the city, and the people hurried to the windows to see if they could distinguish anything out of the ordinary. The news of the attack had spread, and there was much talk of what would happen.

The airplanes were seen flying over the city, and the people hurried to the windows to see if they could distinguish anything out of the ordinary. The news of the attack had spread, and there was much talk of what would happen.