

ADMIRAL
HUGH RODMAN'S
MIGHTY
PACIFIC
ARMADA
REACHES ITS
"HOME" WATERS"

Four of our new Pacific Fleet's six dreadnoughts on their way up the California coast to San Diego. That city witnessed the greatest naval pageant in its history when the fleet of nearly 200 ships ended its 5,000-mile cruise in the harbor. Secretary of the Navy Daniels was the reviewing officer.

Pat Moran, manager of the "Reds," the undaunted leaders in the National League pennant race and the real sensation of 1919 baseball. Pat is the popular idol to-day of all Cincinnati.

Presenting the best all-around canine of the Newport Dog Show, Pall Mall Marvibille Marquis, a $4,000 Pekingese owned by Mrs. Vincent De Mee, of England.

A Spanish Prince joyrides in a French tank. King Alfonso's son, Prince of the Asturias, tries out a baby Renault during recent Spanish military manoeuvres.

Below—Fifty abreast and in perfect alignment, the West Point Cadets, in full dress uniform, pass in final review at the discontinuance of their summer camp and the beginning of a hike to Bear Mountain.

Miss Gladys Cooper, who is making a big success of her part in the "Naughty Wire," a current London success. Miss Cooper is considered the most beautiful woman on the English stage.

Shank's mare with a one-man umbrella top was of necessity the transportation choice of most New Yorkers last Monday. The "L" and "Sub" tieup resulted in the worst traffic congestion the city has ever known. Here's a cross section of it—at Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street.

After Paris and London, Brussels came next in line with a triumphant peace parade. Here are our Yanks again leading the procession, this time past the Belgian capital's royal palace. Old Glory gaily waving despite the drizzle that fell throughout the whole celebration.
