

The launching of the Tennessee at the New York Navy Yard on April 30. The new giantess of the fleet was christened by Miss Helen Roberts, daughter of the Governor of the superdreadnought's name State. The official party may be seen on the launching platform in the foreground. Photo by SUN Staff Photographer.

Modern warfare staged right in New York's back yard. A most remarkable exhibition in behalf of the Victory Loan was staged at Van Cortlandt Park by the Ordnance Department and the Chemical Warfare Service of the army. In this picture doughboys are advancing through a smoke screen.

Tanks advancing across a supposititious "No Man's Land" to the attack on enemy trenches. The machines cost $1,000 a minute while in action and were shown to demonstrate just how expensive war is. Thousands of persons were attracted to the park by the remarkable features of the show.

The yeomanettes of the Navy Department at Washington, all dressed up in their new summer uniforms, are reviewed on the White House grounds by Franklin D. Roosevelt, acting Secretary of the Navy. The girls presented a large flag to Mr. Roosevelt. Photo International Film Service.

Col. William Barclay Parsons and his staff, leading the parade of the 11th Engineers on Fifth avenue. Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.