

77TH HEROES OF ARGONNE REACH HOME

507th Infantrymen, Who Rescued Lost Battalion, Arrive on Louisville.

MOURN "EDDIE" GRANT. Commander of Battalion Wears Four Decorations—Heavy Losses Told.

Another batch of New York fighters of the 77th Division came home today on the transport Louisville, about 1,250 in all, every one of whom had done his share in the historic battle of the Argonne...

Company H bore the brunt of the German offensive in the rescue work in the forest of Argonne, losing its Captain, Eddie Grant, the old New York Giant third baseman...

Capt. Elliott H. Adams of Mamaroneck, N. Y., came home in command of the valiant company. He is one of the international champion hammer-throwers and winner of prizes in the Olympic games...

On March 25 Company H won the championship for drilling of all the organizations then at Le Mans.

Sergeant Philip W. Bigoney of No. 307 6th Avenue, Company H, got the D. S. C. for rescuing wounded men at Chateau-Thierry in September and was cited on three other occasions for bravery.

Company G, which shared the rescue work of the Lost Battalion with Company H, sustained 30 per cent casualties in the Argonne.

Capt. Dudley Davis of No. 922 Park Avenue returned in command of Company F. Lieut. J. H. Mooney, a broker of No. 20 West 97th Street, went out as a Sergeant and won his promotion for gallant work on the field. He was twice wounded in the Argonne.

Also on the Louisville were the 3024 Field Signal Battalion, commanded by Major Joseph Powers, who returned with the D. S. C.; 3023 Mobile Veterinary Section, 3024 Mobile Ordnance Repair Shop, 307th Sales Commissary Unit and a detachment of one officer and thirteen men of the 77th Headquarters.

On the Louisville also were sixty-four wives of soldiers and nine of sailors, nearly all of them English women. Most of them were married to men of the West. There were twelve children, too, and they had pretty much the run of the ship on the voyage.

Many of the brides were wives of members of the 2d Battalion of the 163d Infantry, 41st Division, which came home on the ship. It included fourteen officers and 647 men.

The family of Private Jose A. Pereira, a San Francisco bank clerk, had the sympathy of all the soldiers. Pereira had not been able to bring his wife and five children from Portugal when the war began. He went abroad in the air service and was stationed in England. Last October he got leave to go to Portugal to visit them. He arrived to find his wife dead of the flu and his five boys from fourteen to six years old very ill. He was able to get them to England and have them come back with him. Many soldiers put in the voyage teaching them English.

As the soldiers marched down the gangplank Miss Harriet Pitts, daughter of William C. Pitts of the New York law firm of Randsy, Mooney & Shipman, stood by and shook hands with every one of them.

Their general reply was "Good-by Old Alabama; you're all right, I'll tell the world."

Miss Pitts was on the stage with Margaret Anglin and others under the name of Harriet Fitzjames until nine months ago when she went abroad as a Y. M. C. A. canteen worker. She appeared on but stages all over the A. E. F. and devoted herself to the comfort and good cheer of the men all the way across, singing Southern melodies and telling stories whenever a group called her.

THINKS HER DAUGHTER, 12, HAS ELOPED WITH SOLDIER

Mrs. Josephine Engel Asks Police and Newspapers to Find Missing Girl.

Hannah Engel, twelve, but 13½ for her age, who has been missing from her home since April 22, is believed by her mother, Josephine, of No. 511 East 18th Street, to have run away with a former soldier.

"My child left with a young man about five o'clock in the afternoon and called on Helen Lewis, a friend, of No. 233 East 10th Street, told her she was leaving with a Sgt. Joseph Smith. She said she was going out of town," the mother said.

"We do not know a Joseph Smith and are worried over where she might be. Although she is only twelve she looks more like sixteen or seventeen, being five feet three inches tall and weighing 125 pounds.

"The police have been looking for her, but they advised me today to ask the papers to help me."

Hannah is described as having a light complexion, light, curly hair and blue eyes. She is wearing a blue dress with a blue ribbon, a tan hat with a blue ribbon, black silk stockings and black patent leather shoes which she left home. The young man is said to have been wearing civilian clothes.

World's Greatest Battleship Is Launched In Navy Yard Here as 100,000 Persons Cheer

DAUGHTERS OF TENNESSEE

Photograph taken as superdreadnought Tennessee was launched at New York Navy Yard today and Miss Helen Roberts, daughter of State's Governor, who christened ship.

Tennessee Slips Into Water as Daughter of Governor Breaks Champagne Over Bow.

A crowd estimated at 100,000 witnessed the launching of the superdreadnought Tennessee, the largest battleship in the world, at the Brooklyn Navy Yard this morning. Thousands were packed in the yard, other thousands were on the roofs of surrounding buildings for blocks around and the other battleships in the East River were filled with sailors and visitors.

A mighty cheer went up from the crowd when the Tennessee slid down the ways and hit the water with a splash. Every ship in the river let loose with bare heads while several navy bands struck up "The Star Spangled Banner." It was the most successful launching ever held at the Navy Yard and was witnessed by the biggest crowd ever seen there.

Miss Helen Roberts, daughter of the Governor of Tennessee, smashed a bottle of champagne against the port side of the great vessel at 3:45 o'clock to the minute, dressed all in white except for a bit of black fur at her neck.

Mary Carter, Sweet 16, Tonn, and Virginia Hinson, Fayetteville, Tenn.

"Those in Gov. Roberts' party were: Mrs. A. L. Todd, Mrs. M. E. Meacham, Gov. C. L. Smith, Col. E. Humphreys, Col. Cooper Thomas, Col. M. M. Ford, Col. F. W. Wrenn, Col. A. D. Maxwell, Col. J. H. Riddle, Col. J. M. Henson, Col. S. E. Chase, Col. G. C. Davis, Col. E. L. Pittman, Major Walter Hale, Capt. George Welch Jr. and Col. C. H. Brown."

Between 3,000 and 4,000 men have been engaged for two years in building the Tennessee and it will be half a century before she is completed. She is a sister ship of the California, building at Mare Island, California. She has a displacement of 32,000 tons and a hulling weight of 16,000 tons. She has a length of 324 feet over all and can make a speed of 21 knots. She will burn oil exclusively and will be equipped with electric drive.

She will have twelve fourteen-inch guns, the heaviest broadside armament in the world, four six-inch anti-aircraft guns and two torpedo tubes. She will embody the latest ideas in protection and subdivision, as brought out by the war.
