BIGGER AND BETTER THAN ANY DREADNOUGHT AFLOAT!

Uncle Sam's Powerful New Floating Fortress, the Giant U. S. S. Tennessee, Leads Navies of the World in Point of Size, Cost, Armaments and Ability to Inflict Punishment on a Foe

Copyright, 1914, by Fielding Co.

Who First Thought of League of Nations?

When first thought of the League of Nations?

Yes, at the League of Nations, the world's most powerful people, the French people, have ever been the first to think of it. They were the first to build the international organization, and were the first to work for it and to work in it.

It is true that in 1880 there was a proposal in France to form a League of Nations. But it was rejected by the French statesmen of the time, and the idea was dropped.

In 1904, the French statesman Jean Jaurès, a leader of the Socialist Party, proposed the establishment of a League of Nations. This proposal was accepted by the French government, and a league was formed in 1914.

The League of Nations was established in 1919 by the Treaty of Versailles, which ended World War I. It was the first international organization to be established by a peace treaty.

The League of Nations was intended to be a forum for international cooperation and to prevent future wars. It was also meant to be a means of resolving disputes between nations.

The League of Nations was dissolved in 1946, after the outbreak of World War II. It was replaced by the United Nations, which was established in 1945.

Who first thought of the League of Nations?

The French statesman Jean Jaurès, a leader of the Socialist Party, proposed the establishment of a League of Nations in 1904. The idea was accepted by the French government, and a league was formed in 1914.

The League of Nations was established in 1919 by the Treaty of Versailles, which ended World War I. It was the first international organization to be established by a peace treaty.

The League of Nations was intended to be a forum for international cooperation and to prevent future wars. It was also meant to be a means of resolving disputes between nations.

The League of Nations was dissolved in 1946, after the outbreak of World War II. It was replaced by the United Nations, which was established in 1945.

Who first thought of the League of Nations?

The French statesman Jean Jaurès, a leader of the Socialist Party, proposed the establishment of a League of Nations in 1904. The idea was accepted by the French government, and a league was formed in 1914.

The League of Nations was established in 1919 by the Treaty of Versailles, which ended World War I. It was the first international organization to be established by a peace treaty.

The League of Nations was intended to be a forum for international cooperation and to prevent future wars. It was also meant to be a means of resolving disputes between nations.

The League of Nations was dissolved in 1946, after the outbreak of World War II. It was replaced by the United Nations, which was established in 1945.

Who first thought of the League of Nations?

The French statesman Jean Jaurès, a leader of the Socialist Party, proposed the establishment of a League of Nations in 1904. The idea was accepted by the French government, and a league was formed in 1914.

The League of Nations was established in 1919 by the Treaty of Versailles, which ended World War I. It was the first international organization to be established by a peace treaty.

The League of Nations was intended to be a forum for international cooperation and to prevent future wars. It was also meant to be a means of resolving disputes between nations.

The League of Nations was dissolved in 1946, after the outbreak of World War II. It was replaced by the United Nations, which was established in 1945.