THE LEVIATHAN, the world's largest, longest, and greatest man-made structure, has moved up the Ohio river from Newport News yards for her trip to the Grand Pacific. The superstructure, which was named the President Harding, was the result of much work, and when the vessel is ready, will be a wonder of the sea. When she is ready for service, the Leveathan will be for three weeks at Newport News. The vessel is named after the President Harding, and she is ready for service.
