12

young men were invited did not take place till 4 o'clock, the "gouter"-a term which may mean luncheon, tea, or any old meal-meaning in this case coffee and cakes. This allowed of a turn round the village, with its charming old Goth-ic church dating from the fifteenth century, and containing, among many fine tombs, that of Blandina, the sil-century, and containing, among many fine tombs, that of Blandina, the sil-century, and containing, among many fine tombs, that of Blandina, the sil-century, and containing, among many fire of Rubens; and a peep at two qualit castles with pepper-pot towers, one with a moat, the other belonging to down framed the figure of a young girl of the sil-century, and perhaps singtag in here for marry me?" Invitations by notices, four far and wide, and youths responded nobly to the call. From 2 o'clock one of all softs and classes, from the farm faborers, who, clean, shining and gui-tawning, arrived in lumbering carts, and young farmers with rakish hats to the townsmen, who appeared by train in a delightful incongrulity of at-tive has sing apparently lost themselves, whence they emerged in brown or bast. Some even came in automobiles, and I was left to wonder whether they and it was left to wonder whether they and it was left to wonder whether they in the village by a winding road, ing the village by a winding road, ing the village by a winding road, which boots, frock coats and hower basts. Some even came in automobiles, and I was left to wonder whether they ing the village by a winding road, ing the village by a winding road, which boets, frock coats and how and base and ash for a cafe, whence here ing the village by a winding road, which here has so a cafe, whence the into the depths of a cafe, whence the into the depths of a cafe, whence here into the depths of a cafe, whence here age and lure that shy bird, the eligible young man, into the cage of matri-mony. Flowers and paper napkins gave an air of decoration and propriety to each table, while several self-sacrificing village lads—twho in their turn perhaps seek sweethearts further afield—had turned themselves for the afternoon in-to white-aproned walters.

COY MAIDENS.

Excitement reached fever heat when 18 smart bachelors, all with huge but-tonhole bouquets and headed by a vivacious president, arrived from Brussels; but there was an awful pause when 4 o'clock struck, and not one single young girl could be found with sufficient cour-age to go to the coffee tables and awalt a companion. They emerged shyly from their own doors, linked arms, and, union giving them courage, proceeded to thread the crowd. But they were deaf to all invitations.

By 10 minutes past four they were tossing their heads like proud society beauties, showing themselves off with all the airs and graces of finished co-quettes. They even would this all the airs and graces of mished co-quettes. They even wound their way between the tables (whereat every young man tucked up his collar and pulled down his walstcoat and pre-pared for a dash), but they would not take their places. It seems that envious rivals of other villages had made disparaging remarks on the anxiery of the girls of Ecaus-the end of the adventure. With great volubility he pointed out that he was

DESERET LVENING NEWS: SATURDAY, JULY 16, 1904.

THE JAPS IN ACTION-IRRESISTIBLE DASH OF THEIR CHARGES.

Military attaches with both the Russian and the Japanese armies have stated that no army in the world can show better soldiers than the Japanese operating in Manchuria. It is said the y literally do not know what defeat means est at this unique fete, and was rather amused to find that, the bachelors be-ing greatly in excess of the girls, I was receiving invitations myself to take coffee with one or another of the part-neriess swains, invitations given by a whispered mademoiselle, a nudge and a ferk of the head in the direction of the tables. amused to find that, the bachelors be-ing greatly in excess of the girls, I was receiving invitations myself to take coffee with one or another of the part-neriess swains, invitations given by a whispered mademoiselle, a nudge and a ferk of the head in the direction of the tables.

At last a smart young man from some neighboring country town ad-vanced with great form, and, with much clicking of heels to white canvas shoes and a fourish of the hat, "begged mademoiselle to do him the honor of taking coffee with him." Realizing all that accenting his invitation might imthat accepting his invitation might im-ply. I demurred: but his insistence, a spice of mischief born of the holiday feeling, as well as certain instructions always to join in everything so as to get all possible local color, made me change my mind, and with a smile in my sleeve at the thought of the hus-band left at home, I advanced to take my place with the rest.

my place with the rest. It must be stated that earlier in the afternoon my hostess had informed me that my arrival had been viewed with great disfavor by the girls, who saw a possible advantage in my town-cut clothes and the fact that I wore a hat while they did not. Being already pro-vided with admirers themselves, how-ever, they could now afford to be gen-erous, and my appearance as a candi-date for coffee and matrimonial honors was greeted with much applause It was with much amusement that I

It was with much amusement that I settled down to coffee and my new conquest. Oddly enough, he knew a conquest. Oddly enough, he knew a few words of the language and he gave me many terribly tortured English phrases to unravel, but at last he sank into comfortable French. He was good to say he had noticed me the instant he arrived: that he liked something "high class:" hazarded that I was perhaps at the head of some business or perhaps maid to some lady of title.

Taking off his hat that be rule that I had to remind him that it was he who had invited me to coffee and that it was not I who had alone taken my place at table as an intima-tion to any comer that I was free.

NAIVE FESTIVITIES.

Fortunately a diversion occurred in a welcoming speech to the bachelors from the lady president, made from a rude platform, in a voice choking with emotion. It was very cleverly put to-gether, and her thanks for the ready response of the cellbates "to the spin-ters" call for succor" ters call for succor" was very amus-ing. An excellent reply on behalf of the bachelors was made by the presi-dent of the Brussels party, who re-minded his hearers that last year's fete had resulted in 14 weddings, adding, "Go thou and do likewise." Both he and the lady president were presented with bouquets and exchanged the kiss of friendship, an example so promptly followed by all the couples that I was glad to have lost my young man in the rowd.

A very fat girl with the voice of a A very fat girl with the voice of a mouse then gave us a love song, and many dites on the tender passion fol-lowed. An amusing incident was the speech of one of those bachelors who had been unable to find-partners, and who bewalling their sad fate, suggest-ed that next year the committee should import girls enough to go round. With a bow to the stranger lady he was even good enough to invite "the blonde miss-es of Albion." es of Albion.

es of Albion. Before I left I learned that Ecaus-sines d'Enghien, viewing with dismay the stream of moneyed visitors that had all day passed by, had petitioned to be admitted to next year's festival, the girls of the villages to viding the coffee and cakes and the power, "chic." Italian lovers wrote sheets of poetry for the girls, and a Frenchman, "au desespoir" that the Fates kept him at home, sent a very cleverly drawn up litany for spinsters, in which each line bears the name of a saint with a rhymed prayer for matrimonial bliss warranted infallible. J. E. WHITBY. J. E. WHITBY.

Grammont submitted not only names but occupations that the girls might choose before they came, while they guaranteed that they were all hand-some, kind and possessed of that mystic power. Wahe?

FRENCHMEN STILL

SWEAR BY BLANC.

(Continued from page 11.)

With such a string of fliers in his stable the popular opinion that at 48, the most brilliant period of his turf career is yet before him seems fully justified. Great as have been his successes on the turf his chief ambitton is to dis-tinguish himself by permanently im-proving the breed of fast horses. He is the most trusted adviser of the French government in the matter of horse breeding for cavairy mounts and has made some pecuniary sacrifices for pa-triotism. After refusing $60,000 for Vin-tclus, which failed to win the Derby in 1903, he sold the horse to the French government for hilf that sum. Quo Va-dis, the winner of the Grand Frix that year he sold to Russian horse breed-ing the czar has made him a grand offi-cer of the Order of St. Stanislas. With such a string of fliers in his stable cer of the Order of St. Stanislas. MARCEL LOISY,

The Original.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and pop-ularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many

"7 MONROE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL. To CONSOLIDATED WAGON & MACHINE CO.. 150 State Street, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Five cars McCormick headers and binders shipped Monday. We are tracing. I. H. Co."

Above is copy of message just received. We have twice been

SOLD OUT

on machinery this season, but have fortunately been able to fill all orders. Patrons will please be advised that we can ship promptly Champion and McCormick harvesting machinery, haying tools and Red Tag Twine, and that in the busy

Harvest Season

we keep a force employed to fill orders every day, regardless of whether it is a holiday or not, so that may be gotten out quickly and the farmer not delayed in the harvest field.

EXTRAS

Write, telegraph or telephone us at Salt Lake City, Ogden and Logan, Utah; Idaho Falls and Montpelier, Idaho, inquiring also of our agencies which are found in every prominent town in Utah and southeastern Idaho.

Just received a shipment of Binding Twine which we offer at special prices to those desiring other twine than Red Tag.

CONSOLIDATED WAGON AND MACHINE COMPANY.

STATE STREET.

Joseph F. Smith, President. Melvin D. Wells, Secretary and Treasurer.

Grant Hampton, Asst. Secretary and Treasurer. J. Fred Odell, Sales Manager.

GEO. T. ODELL, General Manager. The Thermonia

Small Bobby had met with a slight hill amount to about 100,000 .- Min apolis Times.

A Startling Test. To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mehoopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure.

mishap, and was crying bitterly. "Come here," said his mother, "and let me

"W-wait a m-minute," sobbed the little fellow. "I ain't done c-crying little boy was doing an errand were dead. for a blind lady. 'Give me a pound of tea," he said to the grocer. "Green or black?" asked the man, "It don't make no difference; it's for a blind lady," was the reply. My little sister, less than five years old, was watching her mother prepare on, was watching her mother prepare the cream for churning, when a fly dropped in the cream. As her mother was getting it out the little girl said: "Mamma, we don't want to churn it up and make a butterfly out of it, do we?"--[Chicago Chronicle, kiss away the tears.'

Then he carefully dug up olony, and put earth and all in a bag, which he caried to his labora-The sorting and counting of the ants required more than a weey of steady work. He found 22,580 ants and 13,500 larvae in it. The investigator was not satisfied with this, for he argued that some ants must have escaped and that many of the workers, no doubt, had been away the workers, no doubt, had been away from the colony. Being aware of the trait that makes ants crawl in hordes over any new ob-ject near their colonies, he laid broad pieces of smooth wood in thier paths and scraped the ants off into recepta-cles of alcohol at intervals. This process was continued for a whole week, till the hill was depopulated, Five ant hills were thus examined in one summer, and the census showed that they had the following popula-tions: 53,018, 67,470, 19,933, 93,694, and 47,282 ants, all of which were workers. The females and other varieties made the total number of inhabitants of each

A CENSUS OF ANT COLONIES. A German naturalist recently made a census of ants. He arranged an appl-ance that permeated an ant bill with sulphur vapors until all the inmates sines-Lalaing to secure husbands as an old crone on a doorstep mumbled, "Our girls must show today that they are not to be picked up in a minute." The swains were getting more than a little cross, when, the sacrifice to

Mrs. Grundy having been paid, the girls' president-the eldest of the party -gravely took her place at table. An-other and another followed, each leav-ing a vacant seat on either side. There was a shout from male throats, and in an instant every Jill had a Jack beside her-though honesty compels the acknowledgment that, the afternoon being hot and many of the men having come long distances, they seemed at first far more interested in the coffee and a peculiar sweet cake made for the occasion and known as a "mas-telle," than in sweethearting. The mastelle looked hard and uninviting, but local custom allowed of its being dipped in the cup till it was soft and sloppy.

AN ADVENTURE.

oli garcon." I might admire hts curly locks and dark eyes, he told me that his position in life was "tres bonne;" that he had economies and was all the time artfully trying to resolve that burning question for Continental suitors, my "dot." He told me he had a mother and that she had intended coming with him that day to look out for him, but was prevented by illness. She would was prevented by inness. She would live with him after marriage and would, he was sure, welcome and love her daughter-in-law. But there was a shadow across his eyes as he spoke that made me doubt whether a stranger village. daughter-in-law would have quite a good time.

As an excuse for his want of conventionality in seeking a wife at Ecaus-sines he said that it was often in these out-of-the-way places one found a good "parti," and with that simple egotism inherent in Belgians confessed that having an English wife would make him very "chic" in his social cir-providing the coffee and cakes and the feast to be held alternately in each village. It is probable that in time the whole affair will lose much of its de-lightful originality and sincerity, but as I saw it it was simply a rustic festival in which all took part in serious ear-nest. An open-air ball closed the pro-ceeding. Everything was orderly in the extreme, there was no going off to firt in corners and the lovemaking was all done in full view of the sympathetic all done in full view of the sympathetic As a study in country life it was as a study in country life it was unique, and it has attracted attention all over the world. Letters have been received from every part of the globe from bachelors regretting that distance prevented their being present. Lonely prevented their being present. Lonely men in Australia and America, struck with admiration for the courage of the girls of Ecaussines, have proposed cor-respondence, but this the village Mrs. Grundy refuses to permit. Applications for invitations poured in, and 25 young men signed a very reproachful letter at the last minute, saying that they had I looked on with considerable inter- cle. But he always hedged behind the the last minute, saying that they had

Asg for FOLET'S Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered as no other preparation will give the same satisfac-tion, it is mildly laxative. It contains no opiates and is safest for children and delicate persons. F. J. Hill Drug Co. Ask for FOLEY'S Honey and Tar and and

FROM CHILDREN'S MOUTHS.

One day I gave my little cousin a wintergreen lozenge, and, as it burnt her tongue, she turned to her mother and cried

"Oh, muzzer, put dis in 'frigerator, quick." Sister Jennie cut her finger one day and came to me to have it bandaged After the finger began to throb she returned and said:

She Tried Five Doctors.

Mrs. Frances L. Sales, of Missouri Val-ley, Ia., writes: "I have been affloted with kidney trouble five years; had severe pains in my back and a frequent desire to urinate. When riding I expreinenced much pain over the region of the kidneys. I tried five physicians without benefit and then concluded to try Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three $1.00 bottles I was completely cured." F. J. Hill Drug Co.

No. Menoopany, Pa., made a starting test resulting in a wonderful eure. He writes, "a patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an at-tack in 14 months." Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspep. are positively guaranteed for Dyspe-sta, Indigestion, Constipation and Kid-ney troubles. Try them. Only 50c at Z. C. M. I. Drug Store.

NO ORATORY WANTED.

"Prisoner, what have you to say for yourself?" "I am not a public speaker, your honor, and beg to be excused." "I thick we can excuse you for about three months."

three months." "I believe, your honor, that I could master a few oratorical stunts in less time than that." "You are a dangerous man. Discharg-sentimental he may even dream of

There is little theory about his training. He actually handles the tools of his trade as he will have to do when he goes to sea. A well preparel fireman is a man of vast knowledge concerning fires, boilers and engines, and nowadays he is expected to have a bowing acquaintance with electricity.

Most firemen in the course of time pick up much knowledge about boiers, and some of them become expert engineers. In the early days of steam navigation a fireman's opportunity for advancement was practically wanting. Now it is entirely different. Not only may a fireman's ability obtain for him any one of a number of pett; offices in his own branch, but he actually enjoys

Besides his pay of $35 s month, the

There are cases on record in green fields and brooks.

ed."-[Cleveland Plain Dealer.

the Stokehole of the Modern Battleship, In Where the Strain Is Greatest During a Sea Fight

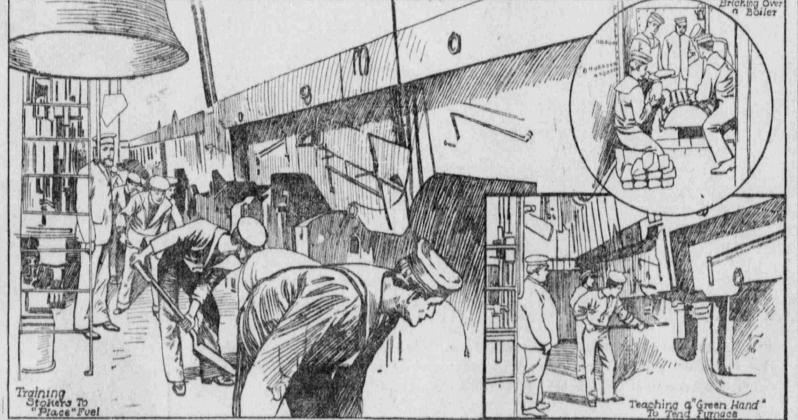

has had occasion thus far to make his hero a stoker. In spite of the fact that steam navigation has provided less picturesque material for flotion than was furnished by the sailing craft of long ago, the dearth is not yet so complete that any novelist has been driven to the stokehole for a proper setting.

Nevertheless the stokehole and its presiding genius are as essential to the success of steam navigation as was the humble blower to the old fashioned pipe organ. The human beings who delve at the very bottom of the great transatlantic carryalls, which have been not inaptly characterized as "heaven above and hades below," may not be subjects fit for idealization, but they are prime necessities in steam navigation.

It is on the warship, however, that a stoker becomes a person of acknowledged consequence. It depends upon him to a great extent whether his vessel is to cut through the waves at the speed that was intended by her designers or whether she shall crawl along at three or four knots under that speed. Bad work or neglect in the stokehole means disappointment and invites disaster of many kinds. It means primarily that the fires are not going to burn properly and that as a consequence the amount of steam It means also that all the plans so somnolence is decreased speed. Such carefully formulated by the experts a ship could not be depended upon in a above decks are likely to miscarry of the men who feed the fires.

generated will be less than is required. freely is water, and the consequent the movements of an entire squadron somnolence is decreased speed. Such sometimes depend. From this will be seen the necessity critical moment. If the admiral of the for discrimination in the selection of through the inefficiency or carelessness | fleet should ask for a burst of speed | the men who manage the furnaces of a she would not be ready to respond. It warship. This is so well understood Battleships, cruisers or torpedo must be remembered also that the by naval officials that provision has boats carrying badly trained or reck- speed of the squadron is the speed of been made by all countries possessed less stokers become what are termed the slowest ship. The vessels of a of navies worthy of the name to in-"wasters." In other words, they eat squadron must not be widely separated struct men in the duties of this im-

coal, the drink which they imbibe too ; the capability of a single stoker that ; followed her example and fitted up the | man of his rating, receiving, if of the old Nelson as a training ship for this first class, $35 per month, while the pending disaster into victory, class of seamen. In Germany, France gunner has $26 and the musician $32. If this scientific manipulation and Italy special instruction is given Any ablebodied man of good character at the various navy yards. between the ages of

In the United States the matter has twenty-eight may enlist as fireman in received proper attention. Naval fire-men, as they are known in America, the united States navy. He will not but this is only a beginning. He must are recognized members of one of the five branches which constitute the en-listed naval force. A fireman is classed too much, drink too much and as a for any great length of time, for it consequence sleep too much. The food would not do to leave a straggler to call vessel, the Okean, for the public state and built a spectral realities. The second diverse of the new o which they consume too voraciously is the mercy of the enemy. So it is upon of training her sieters than any sther i not an easy task to train young fire- i must be learned, there is but one right

men. Many have attempted the feat, | way to do it. By the time the novice has become accustomed to that way he but few have been notably successful. has probably moderated his disposition It is reputed to be one of the most to resent his teacher's criticism. Rethankless offices in naval life-to be detailed to teach young firemen how to sides that, he is very weary and hel In time, of course, he will become betshovel coal. Every man, of course, ter able to work in a temperature of 110 degrees, but before he arrives at can shovel coal, but exceedingly few can shovel it to the satisfaction of a that stage of immunity he will often naval instructor. think of the superior quality of the air

A young fellow brought suddenly under naval discipline after having lived of the upper deck, and if he is a triffe a free life ashore will find most things not at all to his liking and will also find it remarkably easy to get into difficulty. He is quite likely to forget that the critical individual who is finding fault with his method of grasping a shovel handle and is no purist in his use of the mother tongue is an officerpetty, no doubt, but an officer in the navy notwithstanding. In such an environment and in such a temperature it does not require an act of violence on the part of the novice to constitute actual offense. An impatient exclamation or a rash movement may precipitate disaster.

The coal must be spread over the fire in a manner calculated to get from it all the heat it is capable of giving in elful must be wasted. The novice is all the chances of promotion that are inclined to rail at Uncle Sam's par- open to any other enlisted man in the the shortest possible time. Not a shovsimony. Before he has learned how to do the trick properly-long before he the British navy of men whe have risen wins a grunt of approval from his in- from the stokehole to be commanders structor-he discovers that it is not of vessels. stinginess, but prudence. Knowing how to obtain a maximum of steam fireman of a United States ship of war is entitled to all the outfit and rapressure from a minimum expenditure tions of the seaman ginner f fuel has bridged many a yawning chasm and turned more than one im-same grade. He is provided with an ample supply of clothing and is si-lowed a ration of 30 cens a day durwere all, the would be fireman might look forward cheerfully to the near prospect of relief from his taskmaster, but this is only a beginning. If the serves that three-fourths of the highest pay he has eighteen and look forward cheerfully to the near ever received. In spite if the hardship prospect of relief from his taskmaster, attendant upon the callng, there is no lack of candidates. It is possible that this is due in a measure to the fact that the physical requirements are not

JAMES W. OLDHAM.