HONOR FOR THE FALLEN HEROES OF OUR WAR WITH SPAIN

Beautiful Monument to Mark the Resting Place of Those Who Sleep in Silent Arlington.
Fair Descendants of Those Who Fought to Make Our Own Country Free
Pay Tribute to Those Who Fought to Free Another Land.

There is no more beautiful picture of battles than the one drawn by the artist's brush in the canvas of a picture. The beautiful English word picture is a representation of the real world, but it is a representation of the real world as seen through the eyes of the artist. The artist has the power to create a world that is more beautiful than the real world, but the artist cannot create a world that is less beautiful than the real world.

The monument which is to be dedicated in May on the 70th anniversary of the Spanish-American War is the work of the late General John J. Pershing, who was one of the most distinguished and decorated soldiers of the United States Army. The monument is a bronze statue of a soldier in uniform, kneeling on one knee and holding a sword in his right hand. The soldier is wearing a helmet and a cloak, and his left hand is resting on his right arm.

The monument is located on the grounds of the Arlington National Cemetery, and it is open to the public. The monument is a symbol of the sacrifices made by the American soldiers who fought in the Spanish-American War, and it is a reminder of the courage and strength of the American people.

AGRICULTURAL CONDITIONS IN HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

These words were written by the author after his return from a trip to the Hawaiian Islands. The author was impressed by the beauty of the islands and the people who lived there. He was also impressed by the agricultural conditions on the islands, which were very different from those in the United States.

There is no more beautiful picture of battles than the one drawn by the artist's brush in the canvas of a picture. The beautiful English word picture is a representation of the real world, but it is a representation of the real world as seen through the eyes of the artist. The artist has the power to create a world that is more beautiful than the real world, but the artist cannot create a world that is less beautiful than the real world.

HOW TO SAVE OUR SHADE TREES

There is no more beautiful picture of battles than the one drawn by the artist's brush in the canvas of a picture. The beautiful English word picture is a representation of the real world, but it is a representation of the real world as seen through the eyes of the artist. The artist has the power to create a world that is more beautiful than the real world, but the artist cannot create a world that is less beautiful than the real world.

The monument which is to be dedicated in May on the 70th anniversary of the Spanish-American War is the work of the late General John J. Pershing, who was one of the most distinguished and decorated soldiers of the United States Army. The monument is a bronze statue of a soldier in uniform, kneeling on one knee and holding a sword in his right hand. The soldier is wearing a helmet and a cloak, and his left hand is resting on his right arm.

The monument is located on the grounds of the Arlington National Cemetery, and it is open to the public. The monument is a symbol of the sacrifices made by the American soldiers who fought in the Spanish-American War, and it is a reminder of the courage and strength of the American people.