REPORTS ON PROGRESS OF WORK

Cabinet Members Assemble at the White House.

ACTIVITY CONTINUES

The President has received no information of what the court of inquiry into the Maine disaster will report.

The President has not had a word from any one directly or indirectly connected with the court, either as to the formation of the court or the opinions of the members of the court. The President, it can be said, is, therefore, totally ignorant of the work of the court.

It was learned today that the court has not been in session since the conclusion of its last session and that no information has been received from the court as to the progress of its work.

The President has not been informed as to what will be the next move of the court.

Secretary Long and Secretary Alger, Secretary of the Navy Department, Secretary of War, and Secretary of the Interior, all of whom are in Washington, have been in constant consultation with the President and have been kept fully informed of all important developments in the case.

The President has been in constant consultation with Secretary Alger and Secretary Long, and has been informed as to the progress of the court, and has been kept fully informed of all important developments in the case.
