

View of the floral tributes to the heroes of the Maine on the Maine Monument Memorial Day. Rear Admiral Sigsbee, commander of the battleship when she was blown up, was present at the exercises.
Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

The Memorial Day parade was more impressive than ever this year because of the presence in line of veterans of three conflicts, the Civil War, the Spanish War and the World War. This photograph shows the Zouaves passing the reviewing stand on Riverside Drive.
Photo by SUN Staff Photographer.

The arrival of the Austrian Peace Delegation. Above M. Chaleil, prefect of the Seine et Oise, escorting Karl Renner, head of the delegation, from the St. Germain railroad station on the way to the Trianon Palace. Renner is the man with black whiskers. Below are seen some of the Austrian group immediately after alighting from the train. Photo, Mizloff, Copyright Underwood & Underwood.

With honors such as might have been paid to a queen, the body of Edith Cavell, the English nurse shot as a spy by the Germans, was received in London. Here the funeral procession is passing along Victoria street.
Photo, Western Newspaper Union.

Carrying the coffin of Miss Cavell into Westminster Abbey, where a most impressive funeral service was held. Military honors were paid and the streets were literally lined as the procession passed. Seldom has such honor been given to a woman's memory.
Copyright, Central News Service