

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

SATURDAY
January 8, 1916

PICTORIAL SIDELIGHTS ON THE NEWS OF THE DAY AS REVEALED BY THE CAMERA

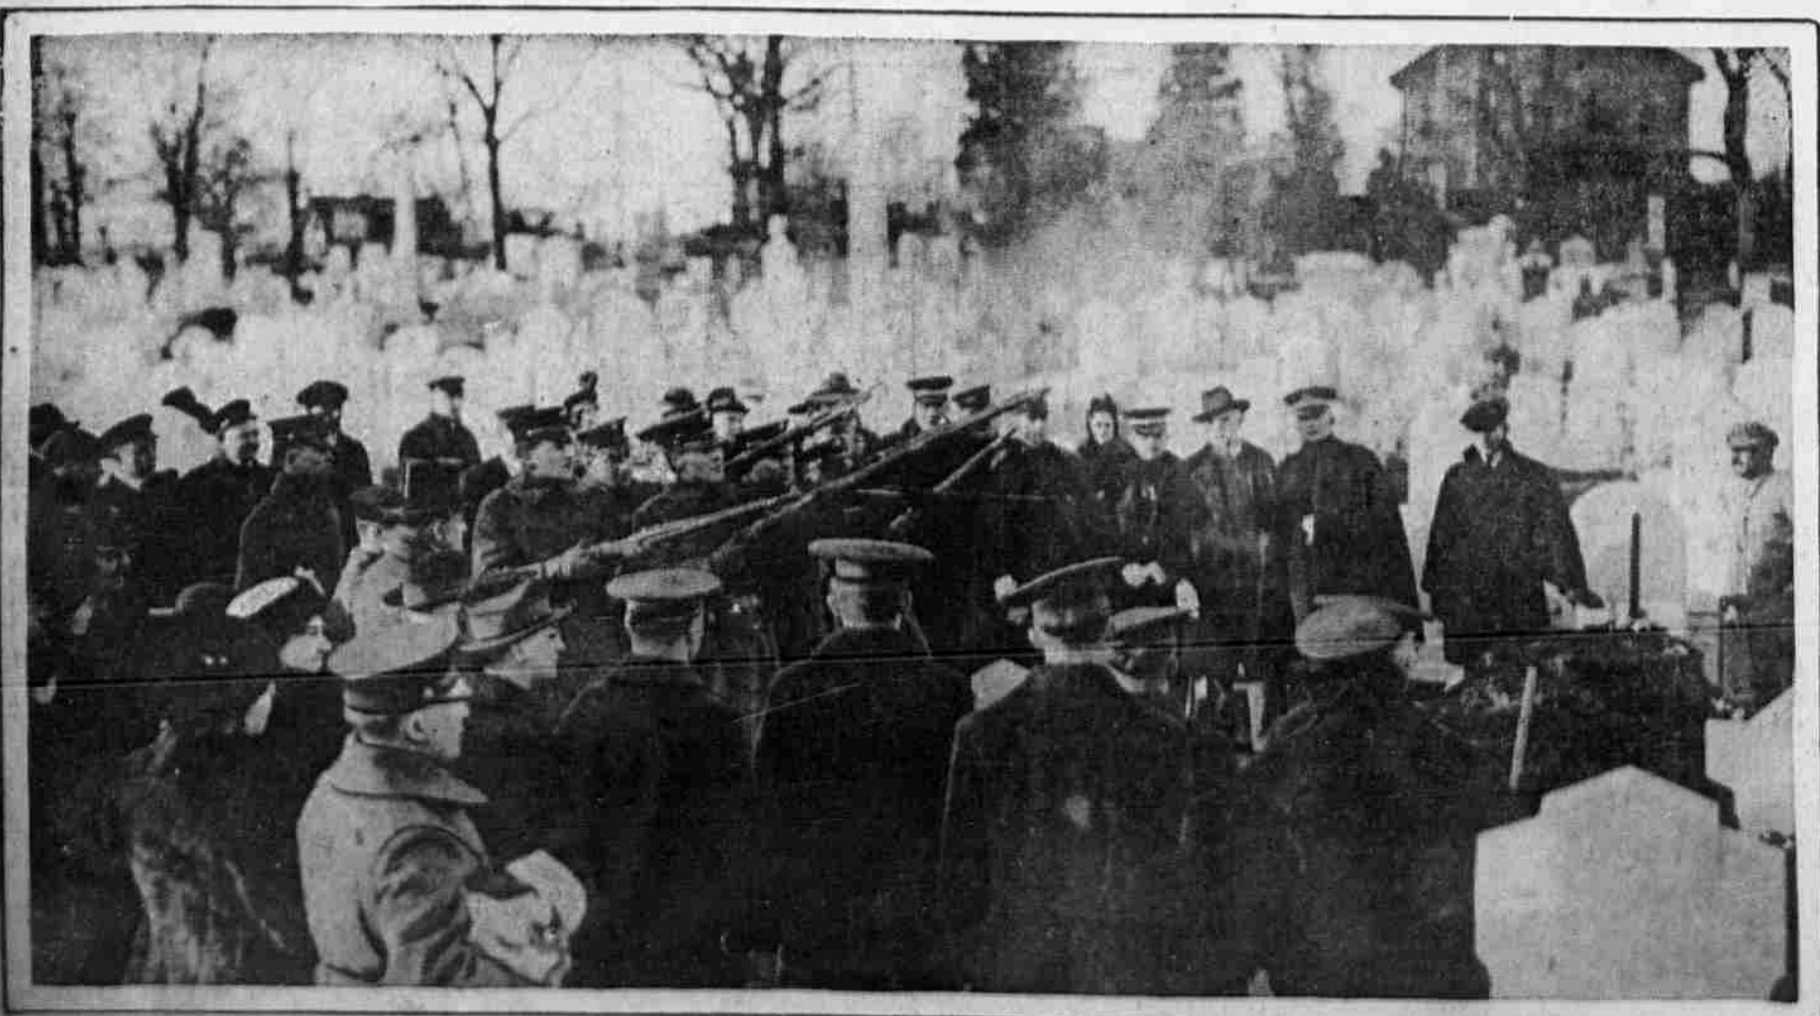

By Evening Ledger Staff Photographers
PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION HEARS ARGUMENTS IN FRANKFORD ELEVATED DISPUTE
Left to right: John Monaghan, Samuel H. Pennypacker, W. B. Ainey, chairman; John S. Rilling, Milton J. Brecht and William Magee. A hearing was held yesterday to permit the rival supporters of the Unity and Orthodox streets stations to air their respective arguments.

THE "MESSIAH MESSENGER"
G. E. Link represented the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies' Home Journal and the Country Gentleman at the newspaper party.

NOVEL COSTUMES WORN AT MESSIAH LUTHERAN CHURCH'S "NEWSPAPER PARTY"
Left to right are Mrs. E. J. Sallada, Miss Elizabeth Dripps, Mrs. H. C. Miller and Mrs. W. A. Carpenter, attired in gowns constructed of copies of the PUBLIC and EVENING LEDGERS.

FIRING SQUAD PAYS LAST HONOR TO WILLIAM DURST
Marines from the Navy Yard discharged a volley over the grave of the last survivor of the Monitor, forerunner of the modern turreted battleship, after the body was interred yesterday afternoon in Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

Photo by Underwood & Underwood
"I LIVE CLOSE TO THE GRASS"
With this declaration Congressman "Cyclone" Davis, of Texas, proceeded to wallop predatory plutocrats and munition makers in the House on Thursday. He kept a full audience in an uproar for an hour. He said Lincoln and Grant tower over present leaders of the G. O. P. as "the Washington monument does over a tooth-pick."

