

DISTRICT SAILORS STAR CRUISE FAR TO SEA ON MONITOR PURITAN

The Old Monitor Puritan, on Which the District Naval Reserves This Morning Sailed Down the Potomac.

Captain Stratton Proud Commander of 275 Brave Jackies.

Two hundred and seventy-five members of the District Naval Reserve left Washington on the Monitor Puritan this morning at 9 o'clock to be absent nine days, during which they will practice with the large guns and go out in the Atlantic ocean. Com. S. W. Stratton says he expects this year's junket to prove the most successful and beneficial cruise in the history of the naval militia.

Lieut. Com. W. H. McGrann, U. S. N., is aboard the Puritan. He is representing the Navy Department, and will make a report on the cruise when he returns. Before anchor was weighed Commander Stratton stated that he had twenty-five officers and 220 men aboard ship, and it is likely that more will join the battalion at Old Point Comfort tomorrow.

Oneida in the Wake. The United States steamship Oneida, in charge of Lieut. W. H. Burt, with fifteen men aboard, followed fifteen minutes behind the Puritan. This little floating palace, which was used as a tender in the Spanish war, will be the dispatch boat for the Puritan, and will also figure in the signal practice for the Jackies.

Commander Stratton, expecting to get an early start, issued orders for the men to be aboard ship at 7 o'clock this morning so that the ropes could be slipped at half past eight. Many of the sailors remained awake all night, dressed in their sea-faring togs, others slept on wharves along the river bank, using their bundles of extra clothing as pillows and their overcoats for covers.

Reaching Old Point Tomorrow. Tomorrow afternoon the Puritan will reach Old Point Comfort. The vessel will remain there just long enough for the men to hustle the ammunition aboard ship. Commander Stratton is strong on land cruises, and intends giving his men a good taste of sailing out in the ocean during chilly weather.

Plenty of Drill Work. Reveille will be sounded at 5:30 o'clock. Breakfast will be served at 6, after which the men will have a short rest and then police, or clean up the boat. Commander Stratton will have a drill, at which every man must be present, each morning and afternoon, and no one will be excused.

Painters Adjourn Their Convention. "We had warm weather all right, but the beauties of Washington repaid us," was the general expression of the delegates who have been here for four days attending the thirty-seventh annual convention of the Master Car and Locomotive Painters' Association, of the United States and Canada, at the Arlington Hotel.

Keene's Transfer Settled. Superintendent Chancellor stated that the delegation had called upon him, but that he had refused to see them. The board then decided, as the matter had already been formally acted upon, that the transfer made, that nothing further could be done. The signers made a plea that they be allowed to appear before the board and speak in Mr. Keene's behalf.

Monster Trout Fall Prey to Young Gould's Patience. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Kingdom Gould, son of George J. Gould, has spent part of the summer at Furlough Lodge, Delaware county. On one of his first fishing trips he noticed two enormous trout in a deep pool and for three weeks he persistently fished for them.

One Hand Good as Two for Knocking Out Footpad. MILLVILLE, N. J., Sept. 15.—"Throw up your hand or I'll blow off the top of your head," commanded an unknown man in a bluff voice to Robert Boyd, who had just one of his hands in a gunning accident. In reply Boyd wielded a heavy club, which he carries for just such purposes, and knocked the fellow down.

Vital School Affairs Handled at Session of Education Board

Dr. Chancellor Submits Communication on Reynolds—Report Recommending Dismissals Approved—Normal Rules Set Aside.

From a practical standpoint there was more real business transacted by the Board of Education yesterday afternoon than at any previous meeting. Several matters of vital importance were acted upon and definitely settled.

Superintendent Chancellor in an extended communication made reply to the Reynolds report, which was submitted to the board at its last meeting by President Roosevelt through Secretary Loebe for consideration.

In a letter directed to the board, M. P. F. Swartzell, former principal of the Eastern High School, signified his desire to relinquish his connection with the school system. He stated that he was informed that he was appointed to a position as Latin teacher in the Eastern High School without application or concurrence, and that under the circumstances he submitted his resignation.

Dismissals Unanimously Approved. Superintendent, Chancellor, in a communication to the members of the board, recommended that the following persons be dismissed for the good of the service: J. B. Clark, from the position of supervisor of the Tenth division.

More Buildings Needed. It is easy to see from the statistics on file in this office that the school accommodations are seriously inadequate. The true remedy, I believe, is to build a number of large buildings with ample grounds about them and in some instances to abandon small old buildings without such grounds.

Larger Buildings Essential. If, as I believe, and have frequently said in public addresses and in printed matter, "All boys and girls should go to school from fifteen to eighteen years of age, quite as much as from six to nine years of age," which seems to be the opinion also of the President's commission, then we shall have to apply remedies far more extensive than those suggested in his communication.

More Practical Training Indorsed. With the suggestion of the commissioner that the training of the children in the elementary schools should be more practical, I heartily agree. I am in favor of manual training, using the term in its largest sense, for the children of professional men, as well as for the children of manual workers, and I sincerely hope that it will be possible to obtain much more such training in the lower grades of the schools.

Crime vs. Education. The final suggestion that it is cheaper to educate than to punish is based upon the plainest statistics. At a cost of $9 per capita it would be possible to maintain in Washington the best public schools in America. I found by investigation in New Jersey that the average cost of maintaining a criminal in the penitentiary was sixty times as much.

system. It may be that there should be baths in certain schools in this District, irrespective of the maintenance of gymnasium work, but the home conditions are such as not to require baths for any other purpose than that of recreation.

With the suggestion that the public school buildings should be utilized for evening classes, and for public lectures, I am not heartily in agreement. I am at a loss to understand why there are not more pupils in attendance at the evening schools.

The suggestion that literary societies and debating clubs should be allowed in public school buildings is a very important matter. This suggestion, however, is not to be construed, in all parts of the city, of school buildings with assembly rooms for such purposes.

Supervision Methods Faulty. With regard to the suggestions that the system of supervision is cumbersome, inefficient, and uneconomical, let me say that I have this matter under most careful consideration now. It must be understood that by the recent act of Congress there are now two school systems here. Moreover, there have been imposed upon the District two kinds of supervision, considered mechanically—horizontal supervision, by means of a high school director, a grammar school director, a primary director, and vertical supervision, by means of a manual supervisor and various division supervisors.

Dr. Chancellor's Report. Dr. Chancellor's report on the Reynolds report, as submitted to President Roosevelt, is as follows: The communication of the President to the Board of Education has been referred to me and carefully considered. While I have not the advantage of personal knowledge of the details of school work in the District of Columbia I have made sufficient inquiries to know the general policy and conditions.

The sociological point of view adopted by Mr. Reynolds is the right one. Even the educational expert should make most of his recommendations from the same point of view. He may, however, properly extend his criticisms to the method of building construction and general school administration.

Salaries Still Too Small. The comment of the President's commission that the salaries of the teachers for manual training and commercial work have now been advanced to a point where the services of the best available talent can be utilized, is incorrect. The District of Columbia is still paying less than the market value of the services of desirable persons.

Mrs. Hartie's Summer spent Playing Tennis

Hemmed in by Circumstances, Defendant in Famous Divorce Suit Has Been Unable to Get Away From Home.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 15.—"I have played tennis all summer. That has been my only recreation."

After having been forced for weeks to undergo an ordeal in the courtroom through which few women could have come so nearly unscathed in spirit and health as she Mrs. Mary Scott Hartie, defendant in the famous divorce suit, has this summer been denied the usual vacation relaxation that would have proven a thousand times more welcome than in the former unworried years.

Playing tennis, as she stated above, has been her only recreation. Last year she went to Europe for a two months' stay. This year, hemmed in by the circumstances of the suit and anxiety over its outcome, she has remained at home, ready to overlook no point that might accrue to her favor. Possible offers of compromise from the other side in the suit have been hinted at and she has remained at the home of her father, John F. Scott, on Bartlett street, Squirrel Hill, prepared to meet any such proposition with the consideration she thought it might deserve. There is an excellent tennis court adjoining the Scott home and there the respondent and her two children have spent the greater portion of their time since the Hartie trial closed. Now the briefs are all in and a decision from Judge Frazer is expected at an early date.

A story was circulated yesterday that some of the funds for the famous fight put up by Mrs. Hartie against her husband in the recent trial were furnished by Andrew Carnegie, who was a friend of John Scott, the father-in-law of Mrs. Hartie. Mrs. Hartie refused to discuss the rumor last night. Her friends laughed at the report, declaring that the model public schools of the country, approved by the Board of Education, are to be rigidly enforced, there is every indication that the views of the Tennessee Congressman, Nathan Hale, relative to the wearing of the peek-a-boo waists, will be strictly observed.

Rules Must Be Observed. The observance precludes the charming lassies exhibiting their tinted necks and shoulders. The rule governing the dress of the young ladies, according to Mr. Eshman, must be adhered to unconditionally. Therefore, it is the general presumption that the young ladies will be scrubbed in growing appropriate to the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

However, there is no rule or regulation governing the powdering or tinting of the face, and the girls may use any superficial method they deem necessary to improve their appearance. As the people of the hotel say, "They will be an exquisite bunch of blushing roses."

Recommendations Approved. The following recommendations were approved by the Board of Education: Transfers—P. Kluepfel, from the McKinley Manual Training School to the Central High School; Elsie Turner, from the Central to the Western High School; W. E. Priest, from the Central to the Western High School; E. K. Brandenburg, from the McKinley to the Western High School; A. A. Doolittle, from the Western to the Central High School; E. Shanley, from the Business to the Eastern High School; M. F. Flannery, from the Business to the Eastern High School; A. S. Hazelton, from the Business to the Eastern High School; P. B. Craig, from the Business to the Eastern High School.

Appointments—J. M. Fracton, A. G. E. Admitted to Kindergarten Normal School, No. 1—Grace E. Batchelor, Marguerite H. Connolly, and Arline Dufour, changed in the kindergarten department of the public schools—Promote Kathryn Brown from principal to model school, and promote the kindergarten from assistant to principal; promote Mary F. Wilkins from assistant to principal and assign to kindergarten practice school in Normal School No. 1—Grace Adams, Elizabeth Pease, Cranch Lemox, and Appoint as assistants the following graduates of the kindergarten training department in Normal School, No. 1—Elizabeth Pease, Cranch Lemox, Lillian Davis, Alice Berry, and Carrie S. RADNOR BEAUTIES TO INVADE CITY

Students From Nashville College Will Arrive This Evening.

REMAIN HERE THREE WEEKS

Party Consists of 250, and Congressman Hale's Dress Ideas Will Be Carried Out.

Two hundred and fifty Southern beauties, members of the Radnor College, Nashville, Tenn., will arrive in the city about 8 o'clock tonight and repair to the Burton Hotel, on North Capitol street, where the hotel this morning Mrs. Burton, wife of the proprietor of the establishment, exhibited a bushel basket of mail which had been received for the young women. Every preparation has been completed for their comfort and the hostelry has been placed at their disposal.

No Peek-a-Boo Waists. Those who may anticipate seeing a flock of saucily attired Southerners, with fine lingerie and fluffy chiffon, will be doomed to disappointment, according to the reported instructions sent out by A. N. Eshman, president of the institution. From the rules, which, it is understood, are to be rigidly enforced, there is every indication that the views of the Tennessee Congressman, Nathan Hale, relative to the wearing of the peek-a-boo waists, will be strictly observed.

STEAMER ON THE ROCKS; PASSENGERS IN DANGER

Oregon Goes Ashore in Alaska at Entrance to Prince William Sound.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 15.—The steamer Oregon reported to have been lost, is a wreck in Alaskan waters. Her fifty passengers and about as many in the crew are in imminent danger, though they may be rescued by United States revenue cutters, two of which have been dispatched to her assistance.

The Oregon met disaster Thursday night at 11 o'clock on her regular voyage from Seattle to Halcyon. She piled on the rocks of Cape Hichenbrook at the entrance to Prince William Sound. There is little hope for the vessel, though she may hang together until the cutters can reach the scene.

News of the disaster was brought to Halcyon by the mate and a crew of sailors who pulled fifty miles in the open water to report the accident.

ANARCHISTS THREATEN LIFE OF FALLIERES Round-Up at Marseilles of Suspects on Eve of Naval Review.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 15.—Receiving word that an attempt would be made to assassinate President Fallieres during his visit to this city, which extends over today and tomorrow, the authorities have taken into custody six Italian and Spanish anarchists. More are under surveillance and will likely be arrested before the day is over.

The chief feature of the visit of the President will be a review Sunday of the French, British, Italian, and Spanish warships of this harbor.

Crime vs. Education. The final suggestion that it is cheaper to educate than to punish is based upon the plainest statistics. At a cost of $9 per capita it would be possible to maintain in Washington the best public schools in America. I found by investigation in New Jersey that the average cost of maintaining a criminal in the penitentiary was sixty times as much.
