Experts Amazed

The progress made by all of them date has amazed experts. To the dif-ficulty of getting any kind of men at all has been added the task of turning those that come into shipyard mechanics. There were only a handful of skilled ship mechanics when work was started on our emergency fleet. It is often wondered how many persons stop to think that the many ships launched in the last few months were built by gangs of men who until a few months Ggo never saw the inside of a shipyard.
