GROWING OLD.

Your eyes may fail and your limbs grow weak, and the blood in your veins run cold; deep lines may furrow your shrunken cheek, and your heart, that was strong and bold, may do its work with a feeble beat; the road may weary your stumbling feet; you may sigh for friends that you'll no more meet-but that isn't growing old. The years may number fourscore, or more, that over your head have rolled; you may hear the wash on the other shore of the waves that are dark and cold; while your brain is keen and your soul is strong, and your heart is full of a hopeful song, you still are one of the youthful throng, and years will not make you old. When your voice is harsh and your words are mean, as you sit by the fire and scold, and your mind is fat and your heart is lean, and your thoughts are blue with mold; when you bring to the breasts of the children fears, and bring to the eyes of the women tears, it is not needful to count your years-we know you are growing old.
