POLICE SEARCH WOODS IN VAIN FOR LOST GIRL

Hope Turns to Despair in Home of May Big and Mystery Deepens

Parents Cling to Theory of Domestica or Detention Against Her Will

We now know the story of the disappearance of May Big, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Big of 964 Second Avenue. It is a story of mystery, fear, and despair that has gripped the community and spread across the nation.

The disappearance occurred late last night, and the search for May has been underway ever since. The police have investigated every lead, but so far, the only information they have is that she was last seen near the railroad tracks in the vicinity of the family home.

FAMILY SEARCH

The family and friends of May Big have been working tirelessly to find her. They have searched the woods, the fields, and the surrounding areas, hoping to find any trace of the missing girl.

HOTEL GETS NOVEL RESERVATION ORDER

Card Simply Announces Guests Will Be "At Home" There

The Fairlawn Hotel in downtown San Francisco has received a unique reservation request for the coming week. The card simply states, "At Home," with no further explanation.

CLUES TAILING MISS BIG

Detectives Behan and Furman, accompanying the family, were taken to the hotel for further questioning. They returned late in the afternoon to investigate further, hoping to uncover any new leads.

MIDNIGHT SEARCH

The search for May Big continues into the night. The police and volunteers have been searching the area around the railroad tracks, hoping to find any signs of the missing girl.

FURTHER SEARCHING IN VAIN

Despite the efforts of everyone involved, there has been no sign of May Big. The search continues, with the police and family members hoping for any new information.
