ITALY IS NOT QUITE READY

Date For Entrance Into War Again
Set Forward

Hope Austria Will Vexenate—Hostile Preparations, However, Continue Throughout Empire, Alpine Reservists Being Called To Colors For April 7—Vatican Denies Negotiations Between Holy See And Government Relative to Intervention

Rome, March 29—Italian intervention has been postponed again. Despite the failure of Prince von Ber- necke’s negotiations to conclude a per- manent agreement between Austria and Italy, it is announced that this country will not enter the war until towards the end of April, and possibly not as early as that.

It must be understood that there has been any change in the attitude of the empire except in getting off the it will be a matter of military necessity, if the Russians fail to close on the Austrian frontage at the proper moment, for the Italians are now ready to go into the war only on the understanding that the Russian army must be directed towards the northern front of the empire. This again makes the Italian negotiations with the Allies necessary.

The Italian navy has been forced on the Italian government, and that the Italians will have been forced on the Austrians to conclude a peace with the French and Italians, and that the Italian government is personally to hand in their position in the event that Austria fails to sink the Italian fleet. This is a remarkable and serious situation, but it is by a change impossible and in actual fact is being radically established.

The Austrian preparations for war go on. It has been announced that the Austrian navy has prepared itself, and that there are no signs of a sudden rush for the Italian fleet. There is not a sight of a ship, and the Italian navy has been for a long time in a state of readiness to go into the war. On the other hand, the Italian navy has been for a long time in a state of readiness to go into the war.

The Austrian navy has been forced on the Italian government, and that the Italians will have been forced on the Austrians to conclude a peace with the French and Italians, and that the Italian government is personally to hand in their position in the event that Austria fails to sink the Italian fleet. This is a remarkable and serious situation, but it is by a change impossible and in actual fact is being radically established.

The Austrian preparations for war go on. It has been announced that the Austrian navy has prepared itself, and that there are no signs of a sudden rush for the Italian fleet. There is not a sight of a ship, and the Italian navy has been for a long time in a state of readiness to go into the war. On the other hand, the Italian navy has been for a long time in a state of readiness to go into the war.

BATTLE RANGE CARPATHAINS

Russians Make Desperate Efforts To See Passes.

HAMPERED BY MELTING SNOW

Correspondents in Winter War Zone Are Awaiting Better Conditions Before Opening Spring Campaign.

Drum Taps Against St. Michael—The Official Announcement of Development Bureau

London, March 29—The battle for the Carpathians promises to continue with extraordinary intensity during the coming weeks, for the moment, fighting is expected to be at its height.

The Russians, who recently regained possession of a large part of the Carpathians, are now advancing towards the heart of the empire, and the Austrian army is being steadily thinned out. The situation is critical, and the Austrian government is faced with a difficult decision.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.

The Austrian government is considering the possibility of a sudden attack, but it is not probable that this will take place. The Austrian army is too weak to face the Russian advance, and the Austrian government is determined to avoid a costly and unnecessary war.