

SCENES, EVENTS AND PLACES IN THE DAY'S NEWS OF A BUSY WORLD'S ACTIVITIES

NORTH BROAD STREET TRANSFORMED IN A MONTH BY THE OMNIPRESENT JITNEY BUS

This picture was taken at an uncongested hour from the north plaza of City Hall, and shows the swarms of jitneys that crowd the thoroughfare. It will be seen that the jitney is omnipresent, even at hours of normal traffic, and that it lords it over the private car by force of superior numbers. For hours at a time the jitneys maintain a ratio of three to one to other cars. The outlying sections of North and South Broad street are now as busy as the central district used to be before the advent of the triumphant "jit."

VANGUARD OF ATLANTIC FLEET FOR PRESIDENTIAL REVIEW IN NEW YORK
 These vessels led the Atlantic fleet which arrived in New York for the big review by President Wilson. The picture shows the Ponopah in the background, with the submarines E-1, E-2, D-2, D-1 and D-3 lying from left to right alongside the dock at 135th street. On account of the activities of the submarines in the European war, these little under-the-water craft of the United States navy are coming in for a great deal of interest by the public.
