USS NATHAN HALE CHAPTER #68 U.S.C.S.

COMMISSIONING

UNITED STATES SHIP
NEW YORK CITY
SSN 696

NAVAL SUBMARINE BASE NEW LONDON
GROTON CONNECTICUT

3 MARCH 1979

THE COMMISSIONING CEREMONY AND PENNANT

The Commissioning Ceremony marks the acceptance of a ship as a unit of the operating forces of the United States Navy. At the moment the commissioning pennant is broken, USS NEW YORK CITY (SSN696) becomes the responsibility of the Commanding Officer, who, together with the ship's officers and men, has the duty of making and keeping her ready for any service required by our nation, whether we be at peace or at war.

The commissioning pennant has for centuries been the symbol of a man-of-war. It is believed to date from the 17th century, when the Dutch were at war with the English. The Dutch Admiral, Maarten Harbertszoon Tromp, hoisted a broom at his masthead to symbolize his intention to sweep the English from the sea. This gesture was answered by British Admiral William Blake, who hoisted a horsewhip indicating his intention to chastize the Dutch. The victorious British thus set the precedent for a long, narrow commissioning pennant to symbolize the original horsewhip as the distinctive symbol of a ship of war.

The modern U.S. Navy commissioning pennant is blue at the hoist with a union of seven white stars, and a horizontal red and white stripe at the fly.

The initialing of the keel of NEW YORK CITY on December 15, 1973 by Mrs. James L. Buckley marked the start of construction on the eighth of the Navy's newest class of nuclear powered submarines. Principals for the keel laying ceremony were the Honorable James L. Buckley, former Senator from New York State, Ann Buckley, the Honorable J. William Middendorf, II, former Secretary of the Navy and Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, Director of the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Program.

Mrs. James R. Schlesinger

Rachel Mellinger Schlesinger was born in Springfield, Ohio and grew up on a two-hundred acre family farm in Clark County. She graduated cum laude from Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Massachusetts, where she had studied American history and literature. At Radcliffe, she won the Mademoiselle Magazine College Board Contest and, upon graduation, went to work for the magazine. Within two years she was editor of the College section of that publication.

In 1954, she married James R. Schlesinger. Dr. Schlesinger has served as Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Head of the Central Intelligence Agency, Secretary of Defense, and, most recently, Secretary of Energy.

Mrs. Schlesinger's interest in education has led her to serve in several PTA's and to take a public stand on issues that affect the local schools. She also served on a county task force to set up criteria for expository writing and on the Arlington Scholarships for Teachers Board.

In addition to caring for the eight Schlesinger children and in managing a busy life in official Washington, Mrs. Schlesinger finds time to play the violin and to join her husband in a favorite pastime of bird watching on weekends.

NEW YORK CITY was christened by Mrs. James R. Schlesinger and launched on June 18, 1977, into the Thames River at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corporation. Principals present included the Honorable W. Graham Claytor, Jr., Secretary of the Navy; the Honorable Daniel Patrick Moynihan, Senator from New York State; and Admiral Hyman G. Rickover. The nucleus of the Navy Precommissioning Crew, which has formed at Electric Boat under the command of Commander James A. Ross, was on board to ride the ship down the ways.

THE CITY OF NEW YORK

“The Big Apple”

It is fitting that the first naval ship to be named in honor of the City of New York is a submarine. It was in New York Harbor during the American Revolution that a submarine was first used as an offensive weapon in naval warfare. The TURTLE, a one-man submarine, was used in an unsuccessful attempt to sink a British man-of-war. In 1900, New York Harbor was the site of the initial sea trials of the USS HOLLAND, the Navy's first submarine.

New York City was first settled by the Dutch as New Amsterdam in 1626. The city remained New Amsterdam until 1664 when it was seized by the English and renamed New York in honor of the Duke of York, brother of King Charles, II, of England. On July 9, 1776, the Declaration of Independence was read to the American troops in the presence of George Washington near the City Hall. New York City became the first United States Capital under the Constitution (1789-1790). George Washington took the oath of office as the first President on the balcony of Federal Hall, Broad and Wall Streets. Until 1797 the city was also capital of New York State.

The founding of the Bank of New York in 1790 under Alexander Hamilton and the beginning of the Stock Exchange established New York City as the nation's financial center. Because of a magnificent natural harbor, the city soon developed into the leading seaport and international trade center of the United States. The city grew rapidly in the 1800's; it became and still is the nation's largest city. New York flourished in other areas becoming a national leader in business, manufacturing, communications, service industries, fashion, and the arts.

New York City has many notable landmarks – modern and historic. Among these are the New World Trade Center located in lower Manhattan, United Nations Headquarters bordering the East River, Statue of Liberty on Bedloe's Island in New York Harbor, and Fraunces Tavern in lower Manhattan where Washington bade farewell to the officers of the Continental Army after the Revolution. With its cultural and educational resources, famous shops and restaurants, places of entertainment, striking architecture, colorful nationality neighborhoods, and rich historic background, New York is one of the great cities of the world.

COMMISSIONING OFFICER
Rear Admiral Carl A. Brettschneider, USNR

After graduation from the Naval Academy in 1951, Rear Admiral Brettschneider served on the destroyer USS KNAPP and the submarine USS DOGFISH. While on inactive duty from 1956 to 1964, he served with two Naval Reserve submarine divisions. Upon his return to active duty, he served on the aircraft carrier USS INDEPENDENCE. Subsequently, he was Commanding Officer of the Naval Reserve Training Center, Philadelphia, Pa., after which he served in the office of the Assistant Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Naval Reserve. He next served as Assistant Chief of Staff for Naval Reserve and Training at the First Naval District Headquarters in Boston. In 1973, he was assigned to the staff of the Commander Navy Recruiting Command and later was Officer in Charge of the Navy Recruiting Exhibit Center. In 1975, he became Assistant Chief of Naval Personnel for Naval Reserve.

Rear Admiral Brettschneider became the Commandant, Fourth Naval District, on September 15, 1978.

During his inactive duty period, he attended Harvard Business School and worked in the book publishing field.

COMMANDING OFFICER

Commander James A. Ross, USN

Commander James Andrew Ross was born in El Paso, Texas, and was raised in Denver, Colorado. He graduated from the University of Colorado where he received degrees in Electrical Engineering and Applied Mathematics. He was commissioned in 1962 as an Ensign in the United States Navy under the NROTC program.

After attending Nuclear Power School, Nuclear Prototype Training, and Submarine School, Commander Ross reported to the commissioning crew of the USS ULYSSES S. GRANT (SSBN631) (GOLD) at General Dynamics Corporation, Electric Boat Division. He then served as an instructor at the U.S. Naval Nuclear Power School, Mare Island, California.

During a tour as Engineer Officer, USS JAMES MONORE (SSBN622) (GOLD), he was awarded the Navy Commendation Medal and Navy Achievement Medal. Commander Ross has also served on the staff of Commander in Chief, U.S. Pacific Fleet, as a member of the Nuclear Propulsion Examining Board, and as Executive Officer, USS HADDOCK (SSN621). Following Prospective Commanding Officer training, he served as the Tactical Systems Director of Submarine Development Group Two.

Commander Ross established the USS NEW YORK CITY (SSN696) Pre-commissioning Unit at General Dynamics Corporation, Electric Boat Division, on 2 May 1977.

Commander Ross is married to the former Miriam Eileen Carroll of Detroit, Michigan. They currently reside in Gales Ferry, Connecticut with their two sons, James, Jr., and Jonathan.
